Independents Absent From Parley

MAJOR PARTIES IN SENATE KEEP OLD MACHINES

Republicans Face Dispute
Monday Over Moses as President Pro Tem

CONTROL IS IN DOUBT

Revolters Will Back Own Candidate Rather Than to Support Democrat

Washington—(P)—Senate Democrats in conference today decided to vote to seat Senator Bankhead of Alabama Monday, if any attempt is made to prevent him from taking the oath.

Washington—(P)—Senate Republicans and Democrats organized their machines today without a hitch, but the Republican independents opposing reelection of George Moses of New Hampshire, as president pro tem, absented themselves from their party conference.

The row over Moses, involving possibly an upset of Republican control of the senate, will be fought out on the floor with at least five of the Republican independents opposing reelection of the man who termed them "sons of the wild jack-ass."

The Republican revoltors do not intend to support a Democrat in place of Moses, but rather another Republican. This may forestall the threatened reprisals by friends of Moses to take away the chairmanships of the bolters.

Republicans are confident of their full strength of 45 members when the session opens Monday but the Democrats will be without two of their 47 members—Gov. Huey Long of Louisiana, and Stephens of Mississippi.

Mrs. Caraway Absent

Mrs. Caraway or Arkansas, recently appointed to succeed her late husband, did not attend the Democratic parley today but she is expected to be present on the roll call.

Harmony was the watchword at both party conferences, the absence of the western independents under Borah of Idaho and Norris of Nebraska, forestalling a dispute over Moses in the Republican parley.

Senator Watson said in the absence of a vote to the contrary, the Republicans assumed that Moses continued in office and therefore his name did not come up for discussion. The Republicans also will stand by Edwin P. Taylor of Indiana and David L. Barry of Rhode Island, as senate secretary and sergeant at arms, respectively.

The Democrats nominated Edwin A. Halsey of Virginia, for secretary of the senate, and J. L. Doherty of Montana, for sergeant-at-arms.

Senator Pittman of Nevada, is their choice for president pro tem.

The Republicans re-elected McNary of Oregon, as assistant leader, and the Democrats Thomas J. Walsh of Montana, Fess of Ohio, and Shepard of Texas, again will be the Republican and Democratic whips.

In Providence, R. I., Senator McCall—a Republican—said today he would seriously consider not voting for Moses—If reports prove true that threats have been made to deprive various Republican independents of their committee chairmanships unless they support Moses next week.

Cigaret Tax Bill Offered In Assembly

Madison—(P)—A bill calling for a cigarette tax to provide funds for the aid of unemployed single men was introduced in the assembly today by Assemblyman John Fronck Antigo.

Under the terms of the measure the state would tax cigarettes and cigar papers for 15 months starting Jan. 1, 1932.

The revenue would be used for the education of unemployed single men and for direct relief during the winter. Later in the year the men would be employed in forestry work, including forest fire prevention and suppression.

Various attempts to enact a cigarette tax during the last regular session of the legislature failed.

LANTERN UPSETS; BARN IS BURNED

John Dempsey Saves Cattle
as Building Is Destroyed
by Flames

A barn measuring 30 by 50 feet containing grain, feed and several pieces of farm machinery, and a small chicken coop housing a flock of about 25 chickens was lost in a fire at 5 o'clock this morning after John "Jack" Dempsey accidentally overturned a lantern in the hay loft of his barn one mile north of Bear Creek. Insurance partly covers the loss.

Dempsey, who lives in Bear Creek, was picking hay to feed his cattle when he used the lantern with his foot, setting fire to the hay. The barn, an old building, contained all the farm implements and machinery. The farmer saved all of the cattle but was unable to keep the fire from spreading to the nearby chicken house.

DAMAGE SUIT SETTLED FOR $4,000 AT SPARTA

Sparta—(P)—Suit of Sylvia Waters, 25, Fort Atkinson, for personal injury damages against the estate of the late Rev. J. H. Bruggink, former Mendall Baptist minister, and the Hardware Mutual Casualty company of Stevens Point, was settled in circuit court yesterday for $4,000. Miss Waters previously was awarded $7,500 but the case was appealed to the supreme court and remanded for new trial. Mr. Bruggink, the plaintiff's fiancé, was killed in the automobile accident in which she was injured in 1929.

REPORTER ON STAND IN RUM RING HEARING

Peoria Man Asked About Conversations With Newberry, Capone Gangman

Peoria, Ill.—(P)—The government called suddenly upon a newspaper reporter today in an effort to prove that Ted Newberry, Capone gangster, paid $50,000 for whisky.

Ed Corwin, covering the liquor conspiracy trial for a Peoria newspaper was placed on the stand in a surprise move and asked if he knew Newberry. He said he had talked with the defendant.

He was asked if he had not told Leo Marshall, the prohibition agent who built up the case, that Newberry had said "all the government has against me in some checks."

Capt. William Waugh, attorney for Newberry, objected to the government cross-examining its own witness.

"The witness," interposed Judge Louis Fitzhugh, "has shown no hostility but has shown a decided reticence due to his conception of his duty to his profession."

The federal attorney, assistant U. S. district attorney, then asked Corwin whether Newberry had not promised him an exclusive story after the trial.

"Yes," Corwin answered.

Asked About Checks

"Didn't Newberry say that $50,000 in checks given him by Jack Wall was in payment for whisky?" the prosecutor asked.

Corwin said he could not remember. The government asked if he had not reported that to Marshall, and asserted Marshall had given him the information. Pressed by the prosecutor, Corwin admitted that he told Marshall of Newberry's remark about the checks and possibly about the whisky.

"Did Newberry say that, in substance, about the $50,000 and the whisky?" the court inquired.

Corwin said he did not know whether the conversation had related to automobiles sold by Newberry in Chicago or some other transaction. He said he could not be certain Newberry had said the payment was for whisky.

Capt. Waugh asked, in cross-examining Corwin, whether the payment related to 269 automobiles sold by Newberry to the Checker Cab company of Chicago. Corwin said he was not sure of the number of automobiles.

SOCIETY TO STUDY CHILDREN'S CASES

A discussion of children's cases in Outagamie county as well as local delinquent or neglected cases will be undertaken by the case committee of the Children's Home and Aid society, the committee decided Thursday morning at a meeting at the Appleton Woman's club. The local committee is under the supervision of Miss Helen Wallis, district worker.

The society is a part of a state-wide organization which is concentrating on aid for dependent, neglected or delinquent children as outlined in the state children's code. Members of the local society include Mrs. L. C. Sleeper, Mrs. E. G. Wright, Mrs. Myron T. Ray, Miss Marie Klein, Mrs. L. J. Marshall, Mrs. J. C. Sullivan, Miss Jane Barclay, Mrs. A. M. Kison and Mrs. Lewis L. Aistad.

The group will meet next Thursday morning at the club. Plans for the year's work also outlined at yesterday's meeting.

TRADING SHIP, FEARED LOST, REPORTED SAFE

Point Barrow, Alaska—(P)—The trading vessel Baychimo, given up for lost after a terrific storm had swept it from its position in the Arctic sea a week ago, was sighted today in a port for 40 miles away.

All hope of finding it had been abandoned by the members of the crew, marooned on shore many miles south of Point Barrow, but an Eskimo trapper returned here yesterday saying he had sighted it.

In a three field of rough ice the five miles off shore and about 15 miles south of here, he said, the steamship was lying, apparently little damaged by the shifting floes.

IMPROVEMENT SHOWN BY INJURED HUNTER

The condition of Leo Schanberg, Little Clute youth injured Wednesday in a hunting accident near Cedar, showed some improvement Thursday. Although still in a critical condition, the attorney said his condition is being improved.

The boy was shot by a bullet from a gun which was accidentally discharged by the hands of Henry Jacobs of Appleton, one of his hunting companions. Schanberg is confined to a Milwaukee hospital.

Military Junta In Control Of Republic Of Salvador

Early Election Expected—
Revolt Is Ended With President's Flight

San Salvador, Republic of Salvador—(P)—A military junta governed the Republic of Salvador today following a short-lived revolt yesterday which resulted in sharp fighting and flight of President Arturo Araujo from the country.

The military group assumed complete control after the fighting ceased and prepared today to secure the ratification of the congress until elections can be held. Elections were anticipated, however, within the next 48 hours.

The new military directorate, which includes six officers and four subalterns, announced that the reorganization of the government would be continued entirely in a cord with the laws of Salvadoran law. They also declared that the people have elected the new regime "with jubilation."

A large crowd, which massed yesterday in the streets of the capital, covering several blocks, shouted an enthusiastic ovation as the soldiers' governors took control.

The six officers in charge are Col. Osmin Aguirre, Col. Juan Vides, Lieut-Col. Juan S. Vial, Capt. Manuel Urgina, Lieut. Joaquin Castro Canales and Lieut. Carlos Rodriguez. The subalterns are Miguel Hernandez Zaldana, Alfonso Hueso, Juan Ramon Nunez and Julio Canes.

It was believed it would be possible to hold elections immediately, perhaps within 48 hours to select a permanent government to succeed that of President Araujo, who has held office since last January.

Extend Time Of Campaign For Charity

The dates for Appleton's charity drive for $30,000 have been changed to include an extra day, according to J. R. Whitman, general drive chairman. The original dates were Dec. 9, 10 and 11 but the workers will open the campaign one day earlier, Tuesday, Dec. 8.

It was necessary to make the change, according to Mr. Whitman, because of the American Legion charity boxing matches Tuesday evening, Dec. 8. Originally it was planned to have a meeting of the 35 drive workers on Tuesday evening in preparation for the opening of the drive Wednesday morning. However, this meeting was changed to Monday night to avoid a conflict with the boxing card.

Adding another day to the length of the drive will meet its quota of $30,000 set by the Appleton Welfare and Relief council, Mr. Whitman said. Mr. Whitman was appointed drive leader by the Citizens Relief committee. The relief committee is supervising the fund drive while the welfare council will have charge of the disposition of the funds after they are collected. Judge Fred V. Heinemann is chairman of both the committee and the council.

FIVE BANDITS ROB MILWAUKEE COUPLE

Force Automobile to Stop and Escape With Car,
Cash and Baggage

Chippewa Falls—(P)—Five robbers, all well dressed, last night kidnapped Mr. and Mrs. M. Cass Campbell of Milwaukee, drove them 30 miles, forced them out of their automobile near here and escaped with the couple's car and baggage after robbing Campbell of $10.

The couple went to a farm house, about six miles west of here, and telephoned Chief of Police Thomas Doucet of Chippewa Falls, who sent a taxi for them.

Mr. and Mrs. Campbell were en route to Minneapolis, and after telling their story to Chief Doucet proceeded on their trip by taxi.

They were approaching Omen, Wis., on Highway 23 when a larger force forced them to the side of the road, Campbell related. Three men got into the Campbell machine, one at the wheel and the others in the rear. Those in the rear prodded the lack of their victims with pistols and the other robber was ordered to drive. The other automobile followed.

Six miles west of Chippewa Falls the automobile was stopped and the other drove alongside, Campbell was ordered to turn over his purse, and one robber remarked they could make good use of the purse, and Campbell's name card and papers "on another job."

Santa Monica, Calif.—(P)—Cornelius Van Ness, Lieut. brother-in-law of President Hoover, was acquitted of charges of possession of liquor after a brief hearing in police court here today.

Trade Commission Tries To Trace Utilities Firm's Gifts

Washington—(P)—Federal Trade commission counsel sought light today on $45,000 which the Middle West Utilities spent or gave away from 1925 to 1927.

Asst. R. Colham, commission examiner, said he found the $45,000 listed among the subscriptions to associations by the company, the largest of the local holding companies, but did not know where it went.

BANK BONDING MEASURE SENT TO LA FOLLETTE

Assembly Adopts Schmiede
Resolution Asking 5 Billion U. S. Relief

Madison—(P)—The state assembly went on record today in favor of a five billion dollar appropriation from a general fund for relief of the unemployed.

By a 23 to 12 vote the lower house adopted the resolution of Assemblyman Oscar Schmiede, Appleton, memorializing congress to take action and sent it over to the senate for concurrence. But the vote came only after a bitter debate.

The lawmakers became embroiled in argument as to whether there should be any limit on the amount of the national debt and Assemblyman Charles Haller of Marinette, who thought it would not, took unusually long to amend the resolution to call for 25 billions.

"Down there at Washington they will pay as much attention to 25 billions as to five," he said.

Amendments by Assemblyman E. J. Hooley of New Glarus, and Speaker Charles B. Perry sought to temper the resolution and consolidate the sentiments of the assembly by asking for a federal appropriation of no specific amount.

Assemblyman Schmiede asked for support on the plan that every unemployed person would receive at least $500 if a congress makes the appropriation which will add amounts to one-eighth of the nation's cost in the World War.

Both the senate and the assembly adjourned today until Monday when committee hearings on Governor La Follette's $17,000,000 taxation and unemployment relief program will get underway.

Madison—(P)—The Rowley bill which sets up a state fund for bonding banks designed as public fund deposits, was approved by the senate today, 25 to 1. The bill, an administrative measure, is now ready for the governor's signature.

The measure was approved yesterday by the assembly, 77 to 2, and adopted in the senate with little debate. The governor has indicated he will sign the bill.

The only dissenting vote in the upper house was cast by Senator Henry Felt, Sheboygan Falls, who said he wished to offer a substitute amendment, but explained rather than doing the bill he would merely voice his dissent.

Rowley said the measure was devised to protect the depository banks against high interest rates asked by private surety companies. The state bonding fund would be supplied by assessing the banks, trust and savings companies which are given public deposits an interest rate of 1 per cent of the deposits. Treasurers of governmental units would be allowed to bid for the use of public funds in banks so long.

Wins Strong Support

In addition to the nation, Avenue, Henry Charles Hoffman, Marinette, John Grosholtz, Milwaukee, of Erie, Indiana, Ben Chase, Beloit, Nixon of Westfield, and others supported both the bill, and the Governor's plan to call for the bill.

Assemblyman Knevel for the depository banks, and the bill, and the Governor's plan to call for the bill.

Assemblyman Thayer, Frank Milwaukee, and Carl W. Jankes, Stevens Point, also supported the bill, and the Governor's plan to call for the bill.

With P. F. Sullivan of Beloit, a representative of the farm loan board, and the bill, and the Governor's plan to call for the bill.

The bill, and the Governor's plan to call for the bill.

COLDER WEATHER IS EXPECTED FOR STATE

Milwaukee—(P)—Colder weather is to follow a snowstorm which swept southeastern Wisconsin this morning and by tomorrow temperatures are expected to fall to below zero.

This snow followed several days of rain, with temperatures and above freezing, are inches of snow fell reported at Janesville, Burlington and Beloit, seven inches at Burlington and First Town, and three inches at Racine.

The snow was wet and heavy and the number of such executions within a week. Two more cases are pending.

Queen is Ill

Sandringham, Eng.—(P)—Queen Mary is ill with a slight head cold. It was learned today. She is progressing well, it was reported, but is still remaining indoors. The queen was quite well when she left London with the king Saturday, it was stated, but the cold developed after the weekend and it was considered advisable for her to keep to her room. She has now practically thrown off the effects of the cold, it was said.

Offers Bill For Repeal Of 5 And 10 Law

Washington—(P)—A Republican representative from Seattle—home town of Senator Wesley Jones—Washington Republican who sponsored the 5 and 10 prohibition law, today proposed its repeal.

Ralph Horr, a new member from the west coast, announced he had filed a repeal bill with the house clerk.

"In moving to repeal the Jones 5 and 10 law," Horr said, "I have two main purposes in mind. The first is against the law itself. . . . My second motive is to disassociate our state of Washington from financial legislation."

"I cannot feel that the author of the Jones 5 and 10 law, conceived and passed this law of his own accord. I rather believe he is a sacrifice offered by the Anti-Saloon league to their God of Money."

Yesterday the house Republicans agreed to support a rule that would permit a third of the members to force a vote on any proposal. The house, which will vote on the rule tomorrow, are expected to approve of a similar provision on or after a more liberal vote.

In the senate the leaders are willing to follow a prohibition vote.

PREFERENCE ASKED FOR LOANS OF FARMS

Senate Resolution Adopted and Sent to Lower House for Action

Madison—(P)—The resolution of Senator Philip Nelson, Maple, asking the state assembly to give preference to loans on improved farm property, was adopted by a 23 to 12 vote in the senate today for concurrence.

The resolution asks that if the policy of the state to give preference to farmers making small loans on farm property, and express the state's willingness to lend should be such as to make it impossible for the state to make loans on farm property, the state should be authorized to make loans on farm property.

The bill, and the Governor's plan to call for the bill.

VOTE QUIZ OF ATHLETIC DEPARTMENT AT U. OF W.

Madison—(P)—A resolution calling for a legislative investigation of the University of Wisconsin Athletic department was adopted by the state assembly today and immediately transmitted to the senate.

Assemblyman Frederick Krez, Plymouth, an alumnus of the university, introduced the measure which states that although a large deficit exists in the athletic department, no action has been taken to reduce expenditures, much of which "appears to be of doubtful value."

BILLION DOLLAR GROUP PART OF HIS PROPOSALS

Aid for Railroads, Farmers and Small Business Firms May Be Included

WORKING OUT DETAILS

Congress May Be Requested to Select Head of
New Corporation

Washington—(P)—The formula for a giant credit corporation designed along the lines of the War Finance corporation has been worked out by President Hoover and will be submitted to congress.

The new organization will be planned to supplement the work now being done through the banking pool organized after President Hoover's meeting with congressional leaders Oct. 6.

The president hopes to have all details worked out in time to include them in his message to congress on Tuesday.

No one has yet been selected as a possible head of the new corporation and there is a strong possibility that congress may be asked to make that selection.

The president was said today to feel that the banking pool has given extremely effective service in restoring confidence in banks and enabling the banks themselves to remain liquid. He hopes, however, has not been as broad as the credit situation demands.

The president has conferred with recent weeks with a number of men associated with the old War Finance corporation, including Bernard Baruch, who was one of the war industries board and today he talked with Julius Barnes, who was the head of the grain stabilization corporation during the war.

Expectation is evident in capital quarters that his message to congress will dwell specifically upon a fresh attempt toward making dollars flow more freely.

Many other proposals before him are aid for railroads, both major and short line, fresh aid for small business and assistance for the farmer.

Numerous senators and representatives have been at work on plans to help industry and the railroads and scores of such have reached the White House from all over the country. Each plan is gone over.

Predicts Upswing

Meanwhile, a senate committee continues hearings on whether a national economic council would be beneficial. Today it received testimony by Virgil Jordan, New York economist, that next year is bound to bring an upswing.

A. W. Shaw, chairman of the president's committee on recent economic changes, has been a not infrequent visitor, and last night was a guest at the president's dinner to the cabinet.

Senator Ralston, Democrat, Ohio, recently urged the chief executive to establish an organization along the lines of the War Finance corporation. He said the need for it was less acute than two months ago, but still existed and that as an alternative he would approve a possible $500,000,000 government investment in the federal credit banks.

The president himself has had no word to say upon such a plan since he announced his proposal for the state credit corporation.

Then he stated specifically that "it necessarily requires I will recommend the operation of a finance corporation similar to the war finance corporation, with available funds sufficient for any legitimate call in support of credit."

Shaw was maintained upon proposals before the president for aid of the railroads. Reports that Mr. Hoover would issue a statement on the subject have found no support at the White House. Recently a delegation of representatives of more than 500 short line roads asked a four point program of relief.

The beginning of another period of inflation early next year was predicted today by Jordan.

Before a senate manufacturers subcommittee, Jordan said the next boom era would be difficult to control and would swing under way quickly.

"At this moment," he said, "materials are at hand for large scale, almost unprecedented inflationary expansion with nothing to stop it."

He cited:

1. The position of the banking system, with an enormous supply of gold.
2. Large volume of hoarded currency, which he estimated at $1,500,000,000.
3. Low borrowing of banks belonging to the federal reserve system.

"We'll have more loans on the grand scale of the last one," he said.

W. C. T. U. Chief Pleads Against States Referendum On Dry Law

MAKES APPEAL TO WOMEN FOR THEIR SUPPORT

Evils of Liquor Detailed at Opening of Regional Conference

Washington—(P)—A call for "the real friends of prohibition" to rally against resubmission of the eighteenth amendment to state conventions came today from Mrs. Ella A. Boole, president of the Woman's Christian Temperance union.

Opening the day regional conference of the organization, the first of 25 such meetings planned in preparation for the next elections, she made her appeal on the eve of a session of congress in which there have been indications of a vote on prohibition.

"We earnestly hope the real friends of prohibition will vote against resubmission for resubmission opens the way for repeal," she said.

"Ratification would probably be long delayed and though prohibition would remain in the constitution, its future would be an unsettled question, its enforcement hampered by uncertainty."

She said those who looked upon resubmission as a path to immediate repeal would be disappointed, since it would be necessary for each state legislature to call a convention.

It would be necessary for 36 states to ratify the repeal amendment, she added, and failure to call a convention would be a refusal to ratify.

"Many states would refuse to incur the expense of a state convention simply for the purpose of refusing to ratify," she said.

Appeal To Women
"Women who think women who still look upon the home as the center for home life... organized and unorganized women, will tell us how to make vocal prohibition sentiment in the coming presidential election."

Then Mrs. Ida B. Wise Smith of Des Moines, Iowa, vice president, attacked the liquor lobby in Washington in a speech which warned:

"This is no time for the administration or the leaders of either great party to take advice or leadership from the pitiful inefficiency of Cook (Chicago) or of the gigantic corruption of Tammany Hall (New York)."

The group, expecting a big attendance, made an appointment with President Hoover at noon. For him they brought along a "youth roll call" with signatures, they said, of more than 1,000,000 pledging total abstinence.

Prohibition Director Woodcock, Senator Sheppard of Texas, and others prominent in prohibition affairs were on the program. So were Mrs. John F. Sippel, president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs; Mary Anderson, chief of the Woman's Bureau of the Labor Department; and Secretary Wilbur.

Mrs. Boole urged promotion of total abstinence, observing "It will need continued emphasis should the wet succeed in their efforts to repeal prohibition."

Looks To Homes
Mrs. Smith asserted the women who wore the white ribbon "do not look for the friendship of selfish interests in society or finance."

Appealing for political leadership from "average American homes," the vice president said prohibition was "intrenched" but was also in politics.

"We find the liquor traffic in the guise of various organizations with high-sounding names here in Washington," she said, "whispering to members of congress that prohibition has failed. . . . That is the spirit of the liquor lobby in Washington. . . . we will meet the insidious attack of the cocktail society group, the Wall-st financier group and the selfish metropolitan group with a phalanx from the average American home."

WRISTON OWNER OF VALUABLE ANTIQUE CLOCK

Blessed are the bleak and the tumbled for they may be discovered by a college president.

At last one might paraphrase scripture to that effect if he were to step into the office of Dr. Henry M. Wriston, president of Lawrence college.

There stands a magnificent tribute to modern craftsmanship, to a layman's ingenuity and to a college president's ability to find something of intrinsic worth, even in a junk pile.

F. H. Bresler and company, of Milwaukee, has contributed the craftsmanship in the form of a cabinet. Dr. J. B. MacLaren, of Appleton, is the layman whose ingenuity has added material worth to the "junk" by putting it into operation, after three years of effort.

And today it stands as a cabinet clock in Dr. Wriston's office, recording hours, minutes seconds days of the month, and faces of the moon.

The face bears the name of Joseph Ward—"Fecit" (Latin for "made it") and the date 1750. It was discovered by Dr. Wriston in a New England barn, used for furniture storage, several years ago. Its original cabinet, brittle with 150 years of seasoning, priceless as an antique, had been burned as firewood, and the works thrown out with the rest of the "junk."

FARM INSTITUTE AT HORTONVILLE TO RUN TWO DAYS

Program for Next Tuesday and Wednesday Completed by Committee

Hundreds of farmers are expected to attend the farm institute and farm program at Hortonville next Tuesday and Wednesday. The local transients are being made by the Hortonville Commercial club, aided by Gus Sell, county agent. Mr. Sell will be chairman of the institute and one of the speakers.

Various subjects, including winter feeds, control of weeds, emergency hays and pastures, soils improvement, and 4-H club work, will be discussed by the speakers on the two-day program. Speakers, Miss Mrs. Sell, will include C. H. Imig, Junction City; I. P. Hall, Madison; and G. M. Briggs, Madison, all with the state department of agriculture.

The complete program follows:
Tuesday, Dec. 8
10:15, Music—Mrs. Theodore Gartzke.
10:30, Quack grass and weed control, round table discussion—Mr. Imig.
11:20, Making Pastures More Dependable—Mr. Briggs.
Intermission
1:15, Music—Mrs. Theodore Gartzke.
1:30, Report on 1931 fertilizer tests for Outagamie—Mr. Sell.
2:15, Emergency hay and pasture crops for 1932—Mr. Briggs.
3, Recreation—Mr. Sell.
3:55, A soils improvement program for seven years—Mr. Imig.

Evening Program
8, Music, Mrs. Theodore Gartzke. Address—Mr. Briggs.
One act play, Uncle Dick's Mistake—Hortonville high school.
One act play conversion of William Jones—Pleasant Hills 4-H club.

Evening
5, Grand Insurance dance.
10, Juvenile Square dance contest for Rural schools.

sneaked in by dark lantern methods. These things occurred because of the tremendous urge to protect the American home from its greatest menace.

"As in a counter attack by an enemy force, the opponents of prohibition today are trying to raid our front lines and drive the dry army back to its reserve strength. We will resist that attack to the bitter end and we will have our front lines."

Discusses "Menace"
"We thought the liquor traffic would be reduced and disciplined—we found we made the saloon a club to hold over the heads of politics and government. We heard Henry Watterson say that in forty years every office from the presidency down had been dealt out over the saloon bars of the country; we heard Theodore Roosevelt declare with all the vehemence of his powerful nature that either the American people would have to subdue the liquor traffic or the liquor traffic would subdue the American people."

"We offered prohibition, and its progress was stopped for a while by the experiment of the government owned dispensary in South Carolina. America looked on while a proud state piled corruption on corruption through the machinations of the liquor politicians created by the government dispensary system."

"Then, after 22 years of the government in the liquor business, that state voted for complete statewide prohibition and has retained it until this day."

"This country did not drive out the liquor business inch by inch because of narrow puritanical selfishness; twenty states did not forbid the liquor traffic by constitutional methods because of fanaticism; thirty-three states did not banish the liquor business before the World war because of petty politician government; nor did the 18th amendment find itself in the constitution because someone

GOV. MURRAY TO LAY BILLS BEFORE VOTERS

Alfalfa Bill Determined to Pass Measures Spurned by Legislators

Oklahoma City—(P)—Gov. W. H. "Alfalfa Bill" Murray, the victor in fights to curb overproduction of Oklahoma's oil fields and to open a free bridge spanning the Red river between Texas and Oklahoma figuratively has rolled up his sleeves again.

This time his objective is an early election for voters of the state to pass upon four of the seven measures in his "reform" program which has spurned by the legislature last winter. Opponents charged passage of the proposals would give the governor "dictatorial" power. The governor last night issued a proclamation calling a special election for Dec. 13 on his bill to revise income taxes and announced he would issue a separate call for a vote the same day on his measures to provide free textbooks for school children, to change the method of making budget appropriations and to provide for escheat to the state of certain corporation land holdings.

Opponents of the measures had protested the sufficiency of the petitions for some of them and the state supreme court set Dec. 9 for a hearing.

In issuing his proclamation the governor said he intended no disrespect to the court, but that "no court can interfere." He charged the moneyed interests were massed against his bills.

The three other measures comprising the initiative program would reduce ad valorem taxes, provide for crop acreage control and make available unemployment relief funds. These funds would be obtained through a gasoline tax.

300 BASS ARE TAKEN FROM REARING POND

Fish Are Released in Hortonville Mill Pond by Association

More than three hundred fat and healthy black bass were taken from the Stephensville rearing pond Wednesday afternoon and released in the Hortonville mill pond. The work was performed by Hortonville and Stephensville members of the Outagamie Fish and Game Protective association which has sponsored a number of fish rearing and propagation ponds in this section.

The bass in the Stephensville pond were received from the federal bureau of Fisheries in September and had been in the local rearing pond less than three months. Many of the fish had more than trebled in size in that short time, and all had at least doubled in size.

Enthusied by the results achieved this year, the Stephensville sportsmen are planning to increase the capacity of their pond next spring and also to build other rearing ponds for which numerous sites are available.

JINGLE BILLS!

It really is oodles of fun getting all your wrapping up done.

But the first thing to do is to shop till you're through.

COLLEGE MUSEUM HAS PART OF HORN OF EXTINCT ELK

A piece of the horn of a now extinct elk, of a type probably belonging to the glacial period, is now in possession of the natural history museum of Lawrence college. According to Dr. Rufus M. Bagg, director of the museum, the animal probably had a horn spread of about eight feet, and was twice the size of the present day deer.

The horn is nearly eight inches wide at the base with a part of the skull still intact. According to Dr. Bagg, the servus megasurus of the Irish peat bogs most nearly approaches the extinct animal.

The valuable relic was discovered many years ago in the Fox river near DePere by Albert Vanderbloemen, and has been presented to the school by his son, Herbert, who is now studying at the college.

LIENS FILED AGAINST KOEHLING RESIDENCE

Milwaukee—(P)—Three mechanics' liens totaling $3,250.40 have been filed against the home of Philip A. Koehring, late president of the National Equipment corporation, who was found shot to death near Mauston this fall, records in circuit court revealed today. Claims were filed by H. W. Duensing, architect, and two local concerns for work done on the home.

MARRIAGE LICENSE WINS NO LENIENCY IN DRY LAW CASE

Milwaukee—(P)—John Ferlesch took a marriage license with him into federal court to face Judge F. A. Geiger on a liquor charge.

"My plea is for leniency, your honor. I intend to be married," he said.

"Six months in the house of correction and fined $250," the judge replied.

Although a feast of five days was granted, Ferlesch and Mrs. Mary Doherty decided the wedding could wait until he was released from the workhouse.

SEEK CLOTHING, BEDDING TO AID POOR IN COUNTY

Appeal for Donations Is Issued by County Clerk and Poor Commissioner

An appeal was issued today by John E. Hantschel, county clerk, and Anton Jansen, Little Chute, new county probation officer and poor commissioner, for clothing, bedding and food stuffs for relief of poor families in Outagamie county this winter.

Mr. Hantschel said that while Appleton residents are considering the needs of their own people, they also should remember the need of poor persons who reside outside the city. Mr. Hantschel said the relief planned by himself and Mr. Jansen will be for families outside of Appleton, including the indigent Indians in the town of Oneida.

Mr. Hantschel already has received several appeals from the Indians for help. He said that plans are being made to care for them as well as others who are found to be in need throughout the county. Last year several truck loads of clothing and foodstuffs were distributed among the Indians and the Outagamie-co chapter of the American Red Cross conducted the relief work among the indigent Redmen throughout the winter.

This year, Mr. Hantschel said, the county has a full time poor worker who can oversee the relief work. The county board has made available space in the basement of the courthouse where donations of clothing, bedding, furniture, etc., can be stored and sorted for distribution. Persons wishing to make donations can call Mr. Hantschel's office at the courthouse and a truck, placed at the disposal of the poor relief workers by the highway committee, will be sent for the materials.

Mr. Hantschel and Mr. Jansen said their appeal for help is intended to be county-wide and they hope the response will be the same. They pointed out that many families will need care this winter and they will be afforded relief if the public will cooperate with the plans made by the county poor relief workers.

BUILDING IN CITY SHOWS INCREASE

Report Boost of Almost $50,000 Over October, 1930

Building in Appleton during October showed a healthy increase over October, 1930, and over September, 1931, the national monthly building survey of S. W. Straus and Company shows. The total for October was $146,200, compared to $98,100 for the same month last year, and $106,200 for September.

Green Bay building costs jumped from $69,160 in September to $106,490 in October. In October, 1930, the total was $119,189. Oshkosh, with $44,539 for October, showed a drop from both the $68,585 of October last year and the $49,531 of September. Fond du Lac's low level of $12,108 for September went a step lower in October, dropping to $11,525. In October last year the total was $36,385. Janesville had a total of $34,175 for October, compared to $55,925 in October last year, and $68,635 in September. Sheboygan's figures were $116,295 for October, $219,131

ALMOST 100 WOMEN IN SWIMMING CLASSES

Swimming classes at the Y. M. C. A. Wednesday numbered 98 women, a record for the end of the swimming season. Next week is the last official class of the swimming courses offered by the Appleton Woman's club, but there will be two additional meetings for make-up work. Women and children interested in swimming are registering already for the new term which is scheduled to begin Jan. 6.

In October, 1930, and $54,976 in September.

Other state totals for October were: Beloit, $28,320; Eau Claire, $28,325; Kenosha, $29,454; Madison, $147,753; Manitowish, $74,152; Milwaukee, $1,055,403; Racine, $83,770; South Milwaukee, $22,275; Superior, $13,150; Waukesha, $37,065; Wausau, $15,457; Wauwatosa, $97,905; West Allis, $35,840, and Whitefish Bay, $56,165.

Wisconsin's total, $2,173,578 placed this state tenth in the list of 12 leading states in the country. A decline of 15.6 per cent from September totals was apparent throughout the country. There was a 40 per cent decrease from October, 1930.

POLLOCK'S DRAMA TO BE SHOWN HERE NEXT FRIDAY NIGHT

"The House Beautiful" Is Story of Nice, Common-place People

Channing Pollock's new romantic drama, "The House Beautiful," sponsored by the well-known producer, Crosby Gage, will be seen at Lawrence Memorial chapel, Friday evening, Dec. 11. Twenty-five per cent of the proceeds will go to the Appleton Woman's club charity fund.

Ever so often Channing Pollock brings forth a new play and the audience who were thrilled by his past successes—"The Fool," "The Enemy," "Mr. Moneybags," "The Sign on the Door," "Roads of Destiny," "The Crowded Hour," "Such a Little Queen" and "The Little Grey Lady" look forward to another evening in the theatre that promises drama, free from the sordid realities of life but rich in honest romance and infused with beauty and truth.

And so the story of "The House

THOMAS J. WEBB COFFEE IS CREAM TESTED FOR CUP-FLAVOR! L. D. Segal Produce Company Distributors

Beautiful" is the story of all these nice, commonplace people, and of their everyday struggle to do their job in the world and to keep clean and lovely that house which is not only their dwelling but their souls. In particular it is the story of Jennifer and of her great love for Archie, through 30 years of fighting Fate with a smile on their faces. Fighting to pay for the house, and to buy the pine forest, and to keep their self-respect, and to leave a little world better and happier because they had been in it.

Distinguished Cast

To enact the exciting roles in this play Crosby Gage, the producer has selected a distinguished cast headed by Ethel Intrepid, who last season was the featured player of the Broadway production of "Apron Strings" sharing honors with that great legitimate star, Jefferson De Angeles. She also appeared in the title role of the celebrated melodramatic success, "The Trial of Mary Dugan," as well as the star of an A. H. Woods production called "The Guilty One." Miss Intrepid's career also includes two long seasons with Ethel Barrymore, and she is well remembered for her fine performance of "Lady Cynthia" in Alfred Sutro's drama, "The Laughing Lady."

John Griggs, who played with George Arliss, the celebrated English stage and screen star in the famous Winthrop Ames production of "The Merchant of Venice," gives an excellent portrayal of the hero, Archie Davis. Mr. Griggs played the juvenile role in the Theatre Guild production of "The Camel Through the Needle's Eye" and can also boast of 50 weeks with the Detroit Civic Theatre company, for which he played featured roles.

The supporting players include Homer Barton, Jack C. King, Alma Brock, Henry Richards, George Oliver Taylor, Mary Alice Collins, Phil Van Zant, Marjorie Jarecki, Betty Oakwood and Arlie Madison. The scenic design and effects were designed by Jo Meisner, and the entire production was directed by Worthington Miner.

POSTMASTERS TO MEET NEXT WEEK

Valley Mail Heads Will Discuss Christmas Mailing Problems

Problems of Christmas mailings will be discussed at the second meeting of the Fox River Valley Postmaster's association at Conway hotel here next Tuesday evening. The association was organized by 15 postmasters who gathered here early in November at the request of Emory A. Greunke, Appleton postmaster. Officers of the association are: John Farrell, Green Bay postmaster, president; Mr. Greunke, secretary and treasurer. The association decided to invite all postmasters within a radius of 50 miles of Appleton to join the new organization, which meets monthly. Mr. Greunke has sent out invitations to 185 postmasters to attend the meeting next week. The association will hold its monthly meeting in Appleton unless other arrangements are made.

Japanese Won't "Accept Third Party Intervention" In Manchuria

OBSERVERS TO BE OPPOSED BY TOKIO REGIME

Insist on Removal of Chang Hsueh-Liang's Influence in Chincow

Tokio—(P)—The total Japanese army casualties thus far in Manchuria were officially announced today as 210 killed and 473 wounded. The announcement was made by the government war office. The killed included 12 officers and the wounded 27.

Tokio—(P)—A spokesman for the Japanese foreign office today declared Ambassador Kenkichi Yoshizawa, Japan's representative on the league of nations council, has been instructed by the government that Japan does not propose to "accept any third party intervention in Manchuria."

"That's positive," the spokesman said.

Foreign Minister Baron Shidehara said Ambassador Yoshizawa was instructed not to consider the suggestion of Dr. Alfred Soe, Chinese spokesman, that neutral observers participate in any Sino-Japanese negotiations over zone limits and policing there.

"The council appears to have taken up the question of a neutral zone, without our knowledge," the spokesman said.

"All of Marshal Chang Hsueh-Liang's influence in the Chincow region must be removed," he added.

"According to evidence in our hands the local Chinese at Chincow are sympathetic to Marshal Chang and we now insist that the administration at Chincow and in the neutral area come under the jurisdiction of the new local government at Mukden headed by Yuan Chin-Kai."

"This is mainly a question between the Japanese and Marshal Chang, who, during his regime, to all intents and purposes was absolutely independent of Nanking."

The news from Paris that the league council had taken a hand in the proposed Chinese evacuation of Chincow caused the greatest surprise here. It is Japan's contention that China and Japan should be left free to settle the details of the neutral zone by direct negotiation.

Japanese press dispatches today represented the situation in south Manchuria as becoming increasingly threatening. The Japanese withdrawal, they said, is looked upon as a sign of weakness and that the Chinese are spreading reports that Japanese troops were defeated.

Chinese troop movements were reported along the Tachuan-Tungling railway where the third cavalry brigade was said to be advancing from Chincow in the direction of Hsianmifu.

It was learned at headquarters that the Japanese second division has been re-established at its normal peace time station at Liaoyang. This was being interpreted in two ways, either as a welcome sign because it would be a withdrawal within the treaty zone or as an ominous move because Liaoyang is nearer Chincow.

Press reports from Mukden said commanders at Chincow held a conference, voted against the establishment of the proposed neutral zone there and "resolved to fight it out with the Japanese." This report could not be confirmed officially.

EXPLAIN REPORTS

Paris—(P)—The Japanese delegation to the league of nations' council reported to the council today that reports of Japanese military activity at Harbin, Manchuria, were erroneously based upon a visit by Japanese boy scouts wrapped in big water military overcoats.

The report, which agitated international quarters several days ago, said 49 Japanese soldiers in uniform arrived at Harbin Nov. 27 and proceeded to the Japanese consulate.

The council was inactive this morning but it expected new notes from Nanking and Tokyo this afternoon regarding the proposed compromise settlement.

Contractor Dies

PATRICK J. GARVEY

Funeral services for Patrick J. Garvey, 47, Freedom, vice president of the Garvey-Wesenberg Construction Co., who died early Thursday morning following a lingering illness, will be held at 8:30 Saturday morning at the home, and at 10 o'clock at St. Nicholas church, the Rev. Father Van Dyke officiating. Burial will be in the parish cemetery. The body was taken from the Schommer Funeral home to the Freedom residence late Thursday.

Boy Scouts To Collect Old Clothes

A "clean-up" campaign for old clothes not collected last weekend will be conducted by 15 boy scouts of Troop 5 Saturday morning, according to M. G. Clark, valley scout executive. Last weekend the boys collected over 600 bundles of clothes, but were unable to complete the job. They will use one street department truck for the work tomorrow.

An appeal is being made to housewives to get old clothing ready to night, so that when scouts arrive at the homes tomorrow the bundles will be ready to pick up.

There are between 80 and 90 bundles to be gathered tomorrow along W. Prospect in the Third ward and in various other parts of the city.

The old clothing is being gathered for the Appleton Welfare and Relief council. It is being taken to the committee's headquarters in the basement of Hotel Northern, Mrs. Paul Hackbert is chairman of the committee in charge.

ONEIDA INDIAN IS SENTENCED TO JAIL

Lawrence Baird Draws Sentence of One to Two Years in Waupun

Lawrence Baird, an Oneida Indian, was sentenced to one to two years in state prison at Waupun when he pleaded guilty before Judge Theodore Berg in municipal court yesterday afternoon of larceny.

Baird was taken to Waupun today by Sheriff John Lappen.

The Indian was arrested following an investigation by Edward Lutz, undersheriff, and Stanley A. Staudt, district attorney. The investigation followed the dropping of larceny charges against Baird previous to his second arrest. The district attorney nolleed the case for lack of evidence. He was rearrested later, however, and confessed. He was charged with stealing cash totaling $50.75 and a watch, ring and flashlight valued at $40 from Fred Hoffman, Sr., town of Oneida.

FOUR TABLES PLAY AT BRIDGE PARTY

First prize at the first winter season tournament of the Appleton Bridge Players was set for Monday morning. The tournament was won by Mrs. J. P. Frank and Mrs. William Van Nortwick. Second prize was won by Casper Miller and John Neider and third prize by Mrs. Ray Peterson and Mrs. Paul Seaton. There were four in all in play.

It Is Said--

That the Phi Mus in Appleton have a picture story to tell to their grandchildren. They have a complete movie of their last reunion which has been shown at several recent meetings. The movie shows members arriving by airplane at the airport, by train, on foot and even walking down the railroad tracks.

The reunion reel continues in a running story picturing several close-ups of the members down to the "little Greeks," ending with some beautiful "shots" of the campus taken at sunset.

That judging from the shrieks and scufflings that come from the girls' gymnasium at Appleton high school every morning, basketball is a popular sport. The season began this week in all the gymnasium classes, according to Miss Lenora May, instructor.

WORLD PEACE ADVOCATE TO SPEAK IN CITY

Clark M. Eichelberger of League of Nations Here Over Weekend

Three meetings Sunday at Appleton churches and four on Monday at Lawrence college, high school and with clubs have been scheduled for C. M. Eichelberger, executive secretary of the midwest office of the League of Nations. His subject will be the League of Nations, World Court and disarmament.

Sunday morning Mr. Eichelberger will occupy the pulpit of the First Congregational church. At 5:30 in the evening he will address a union gathering of young people from Appleton churches at First Congregational church following fellowship supper. The evening service will be at union meetings of Protestant churches at the First Baptist church, with the Rev. Ernest Hasselblad, chairman, and Mr. Eichelberger as speaker.

Monday morning Mr. Eichelberger will address Lawrence college students at convocation and at 12:15 will address the Lions club at the Conway hotel. Other service club members have been invited to hear him.

Appleton high school students will hear Mr. Eichelberger at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon and at 5:30 he will meet with the Business Men's club at Hotel Northern. A. F. Kleizien will preside at the latter meeting.

Mr. Eichelberger served with the American Expeditionary force in France and since the close of the war has given himself to working for better international understanding. During the past 10 years he has delivered thousands of lectures urging that the United States assume what he considers its proper place in the world community. In several extended tours of Europe during which he attended numerous League of Nations conferences, assemblies and council meetings, and sessions of the World Court at the Hague, he has made an intensive study of the League of Nations organization. He is an advocate of American membership in the League of Nations, and is writing and speaking in promotion of world peace.

Mr. Eichelberger has recently returned from Geneva where he attended the twelfth assembly of the League of Nations, and also sat in on some of the Manchurian debates.

COURT DIRECTS SUIT DISMISSAL

John M. Balliet Wins Case Started by Hortonville Contractor

Judge Edgar V. Werner in circuit court Thursday afternoon directed a verdict in favor of the defendant in a suit brought by W. A. Zimmer, Hortonville contractor, against John M. Balliet, Appleton. Zimmer sought damages of $2,510 from Balliet claiming that the latter had violated an oral contract under which Balliet had agreed to keep Zimmer covered by compensation insurance. Balliet claimed that Zimmer had failed to pay his premiums on past insurance policies and therefore he refused to issue another policy.

A workman, Edward Lipke, employed by Zimmer on construction of a silo at the Waupaca County asylum, fell and was fatally injured in July, 1929. The Hardware Mutual Insurance company, which carried a policy covering Waupaca, paid an award of $2,710 to Lipke's relatives and then secured a judgment against Zimmer. Zimmer claimed that Zimmer should have had his activities at Waupaca covered by a compensation policy.

A jury was chosen yesterday morning to hear the suit and the testimony was completed when the judge ordered dismissal of the case.

DENIES HE DROVE BUS WITHOUT PERMIT

Russell Walsh, 322 W. Harrison, pleaded not guilty when arraigned in municipal court before Judge Theodore Berg this morning on charges of operating a bus without a license. Hearing was set for Monday morning. Walsh was arrested yesterday by Fred Arnold, motorcycle officer. He was driving a Fox River bus company bus.

The arrest of Walsh is the third to be made of drivers for the Fox River company. Last week Ray Stengen, another driver, was fined $10 and costs. About a month ago E. R. Sager, another driver, also was fined $10 and costs. Both the Sager and the Versteegen cases have been appealed.

TWO PAY FINES FOR PARKING TOO LONG

Two cars were fined $1 and costs each by Judge Theodore Berg in municipal court this morning when they pleaded guilty of parking their cars on College-ave yesterday for more than 90 minutes. Similar charges against two other drivers were dismissed for lack of evidence, while two other drivers, charged with the same offense, are to appear in court later.

STATE COURT CAN'T TRY U. S. DRY LAW CASE, JUDGE RULES

Lancaster, Wis.—(P)—In a case intended as a test, Circuit Judge S. E. Smalley held a state court has no right to accept a plea of guilty from a defendant charged with violation of federal prohibition laws.

The decision was made in a case against Harold Hill, carried through the state court by District Attorney O. P. Christenson. On Oct. 19 Hill appeared before Judge Smalley and pleaded guilty. The judge deferred sentence pending his investigation of the court's jurisdiction.

In making his decision Tuesday, Judge Smalley said no offense against Wisconsin statutes was involved in the information against Hill and hence he could not be prosecuted in Wisconsin courts.

LITTLE THEATRE TO PRESENT PLAY AT COLLEGE CHAPEL

26 Crippled Children to Attend Production as Guests of Elk Lodge

Twenty-six crippled children of Appleton Orthopedic school will be guests of the Elk lodge at the performance of "Treasure Island" which will be presented by the Little Theatre of the Fox River Valley at 8:30 Saturday afternoon at Lawrence Memorial chapel.

"Treasure Island," Jules Eckert's play based on the exciting pirate story of Robert Louis Stevenson, promises to be the colorful beginning for the Little Theatre, which opens its first official season Saturday afternoon. The season's repertoire will be made up of children's productions and at least one adult play, according to Mrs. F. Theodore Cloak, dramatic director of the organization.

The Little Theatre had its original in dramatic interest in the community. Workers in two previous children's plays sponsored by Mrs. Cloak, "Snow White" and "Robin Hood," formed the nucleus for the organization. Last winter until now it has the support of schools throughout the valley, women's organizations and civic clubs. More than 30 citizens, residents in Appleton, Neenah, Menasha and Kaukauna, have become patrons and patronesses of the new organization.

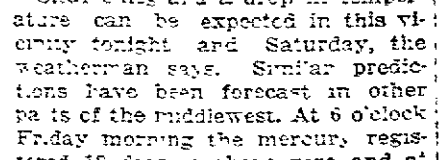

Original Stage Sets
The designs and settings of "Treasure Island" will be especially outstanding for this production, with six entirely original stage sets used in the four-act play. The entire setting was constructed and painted by members of the production staff, headed by Leo Gardner, teacher at Wilson junior high school, assisted by Harold Hauser. The scenery was designed by Clifford Glasheen and Thea Dineen.

The play itself opens in a shadowy wharf in England with the Admiral Ben Bow Inn in a foggy background. Little Jim Hawkins, the hero of every child's heart lives with his mother in the Inn, also the abode of stern Captain Bones, head of a pirate crew. The search for 7,000 pieces of gold on the far off Treasure Island is shown by a stormy ride aboard the "H.M.S. Hispanola," ending with a fierce battle on a realistic island before real blockades.

FAIR, COLD WEATHER PREDICTED SATURDAY

Although general atmospheric conditions were to the contrary Friday, the weatherman has predicted fair and colder weather for the next 24 hours. The wind was blowing from the north-east which usually is a good indication that inclement weather is on the way. Snow and rain was falling in Chicago and Winnetka Friday.

Clear skies and a drop in temperature can be expected in this vicinity tonight and Saturday, the weatherman says. Similar predictions have been forecast in other parts of the midwest. At 6 o'clock Friday morning the mercury registered 15 degrees above zero and at noon it registered 33 degrees.

COUNCIL LEADERS ON REGION SEVEN STAFFS

Three valley council boy scout leaders were chosen to serve on staffs and committees at the annual regional scout conference at Eugene, Ore., Dec. 10-12, according to M. G. Clark, valley scout executive, who returned Thursday. Twelve other valley scout heads and officers were present. Scout officials from throughout Wisconsin, Michigan, Illinois and Indiana attended.

COLLECT $631 IN MUNICIPAL COURT FINES IN MONTH

38 Defendants Are Fined, 10 are Jailed, 5 Dismissed and 14 Are Held

Fines and costs totalling $631.07 were paid by 38 defendants in municipal court in November, according to the monthly report of William R. Kreiss, municipal court reporter. In addition to these 38 there were 14 defendants held for trial, 10 were sent to jail, and five were dismissed.

Under city ordinances there was $219.05 collected in fines, $50 in costs, and $23.30 in officer's fees. Arrests under city ordinances were as follows: speeding, 17; jumping a car, 2; drunkenness, 4; drunken driving, 2; loitering, 3; and one each for driving a car without a license and passing automatic signal lights.

Only $20 in fines and $11.90 in costs were collected under county statutes. Arrests under county statutes were as follows: reckless driving, 5; and one each for driving a car with four persons in the front seat, jumping an arterial, and driving a car without lights.

There was $170 in fines, $28 in costs, and $38.82 in officer's fees collected under state laws. Arrests under these laws were made as follows: violating game laws, 2; driving a car without a license, 4; assault and battery, 2; passing worthless checks, 2; trapping without a license, 2; larceny, 3; drunkenness, 2; concealing stolen property, 2; and one each for trespassing, selling mortgaged property, overloading a truck, drunken driving, making a false financial statement, non-support and illegitimacy.

WOMAN ARRAIGNED ON ARSON CHARGE

Mrs. Scharman to Plead to Information on December 14

Mrs. Mary Scharman, 1905 W. Haskell st., was arraigned in municipal court before Judge Theodore Berg Thursday afternoon on a charge of arson. She waived preliminary hearing, and Dec. 14 was set as the date when an information charging her with the crime will be read. Bonds of $1,000 were furnished by Mrs. Scharman.

The woman was arrested Wednesday afternoon by W. E. Finnegan, Green Bay, deputy state firemarshal, after he had spent two days investigating a fire which caused $700 at the Scharman residence early last Sunday morning. The residence is owned by Mrs. Catherine Rogers.

The fire was discovered by neighbors about 2:30 Sunday morning. Firemen found two separate fire burning at points which were separated by two closed doors. It is the contention of the fire marshal that Mrs. Scharman set the fire about 5 o'clock Sunday afternoon when she left home and that it smoldered until it was discovered by neighbors the next morning. The Scharmans were not at home when the fire was reported.

START REPAIR WORK ON LOCKS AT BERLIN

Install Coffor Dams on Government Project on Upper Fox River

Workmen of the government engineering department have started installing coffer dams preliminary to repair work on the federal locks at Berlin, according to Nelson Wright, government engineer. Installation of coffer dams for repair work on the Menasha locks has been completed, he says. Lock gates are to be repaired, and walls will be relined. Later this winter the locks at Princeton on the upper Fox river also will be overhauled.

Government boats, including the tug Neenah, the Menasha, dredged De Pere, and various dump scows and derricks already have been docked at Kaukauna where they are to be overhauled during the winter. The boats will receive a new coat of paint, while machinery in other vessels is being put into shape for the 1932 navigation season.

The tug Menasha probably will need the least amount of repair. That boat was partially rebuilt and redecorated early this year when it was partly destroyed by fire.

RECOVER STOLEN CAR

An automobile owned by Miss Eleanor Morarity, teacher at Coffeeville school, Deer Creek, was stolen last night from its parking place in the village of Bear Creek. The car was found about two hours later in Clintonville, with Miss Morarity's purse and groceries untouched.

R. H. HOFFMAN AGAIN HEADS BRICKLAYERS

R. H. Hoffman was reelected president of Bricklayers and Plasterers Union No. 10 of Appleton at a recent meeting at Trades and Labor hall. E. Roemer was elected deputy, E. Matzke financial secretary, H. Yunge treasurer, W. Harms recording and corresponding secretary, and John Kuchenbecker, warden. A smoker will be held after the first meeting next month at Trades and Labor hall.

OUTAGAMIE, OCONTO COUNTY VETERANS MEET AT KAUKAUNA

Hear Talks by James Burns, State Department Service Officer

More than 100 members of American Legion posts from Outagamie and Oconto counties attended the joint meeting of two county councils last night at Legion hall, Kaukauna. The program opened with a chicken dinner, followed by a talk by James Burns, state service officer, Milwaukee, and six boxing bouts. Dale Andrews, Kaukauna, chairman of Outagamie council, presided.

Appleton veterans who attended the meeting were Marshall C. Graft and L. Hugo Keller, past state commanders of the legion. Herbert H. Heible, One Johnstons post commander, Fred C. Heimritz, A. A. Arens, William Reetz, C. O. Baetz and F. F. Wheeler.

The two councils are considered the most active in the state and the joint meeting was the first of such a nature ever held. Another probably will be held in a few weeks in Oconto.

James Burns, state service officer, outlined for the veterans the various kinds of benefits open to service men, the work his office in Milwaukee has done, and the ratings for various types of disability as outlined by the veterans bureau.

Arthur Schmalz, Kaukauna, Ninth district commander of the legion in which district the two councils are located, discussed membership activities. Oconto Council Chairman Brazee also gave a short talk. A program consisting of six exhibition boxing bouts was staged under direction of Stan Lizon, athletic instructor of the Kaukauna post. The bouts featured several Kaukauna and Appleton boxers. One of the exhibition matches was especially interesting as it gave the legionnaires an idea of what will take place next Tuesday at the armory, when One Johnstons post stages its charity boxing card. The bout was between Harold Cutler who fights Hans Ahl of Oshkosh in the wind-up, and Hank Rasmussen, who fights in the semi-windup.

DEATHS

GUSTAVE F. GRIMMER
Gustave F. Grimmer, janitor of Nicolet school, Kaukauna, died at 11 o'clock Monday morning at his home, 201 Sixth st., Kaukauna. He suffered a stroke last Monday while at work in the school.

He was a member of the Odd Fellows, Woodmen, and Immanuel Reformed church. He was born in the town of Newton and at the age of 9 came to Kaukauna with his parents. In 1911 he moved to Marathon City, where he lived on a farm for eight years after which he returned to Kaukauna.

Survivors are the widow; two sons Oscar, Kaukauna, and Arthur, Fond du Lac; one daughter, Mrs. Ralph Vetter, Kaukauna; and one brother, Carl, Kaukauna.

Funeral services will be held at 1:30 Monday afternoon at the home and at 2 o'clock at Immanuel Reformed church, the Rev. John Schieb officiating. Burial will be in Union cemetery.

A. C. NELSON
A. C. Nelson, 71, died at 9:30 Thursday evening at his home on Lake st., Waupaca. He had been a resident of Waupaca for over 60 years.

Survivors are the widow and seven children: Mrs. Fred Hansen, Kenosha; Charles Nelson, Colby; Mrs. William Jensen, Miss Flora Nelson, Miss Camilla Nelson all of Milwaukee; Fred Nelson, of Joliet, Ill.; and Carl Nelson of Waupaca.

Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon at the Holy Family home at Waupaca with the Rev. G. N. Deedy in charge.

MRS. HARRY EVANS

The funeral of Mrs. Harry Evans former Appleton resident, was held at 9 o'clock Wednesday morning from the home in New London, with services at 8:00 at the Most Precious Blood church at New London. Burial was at St. Joseph cemetery. She was the widow of Frank Partridge, George Hoize and Peter Partridge, Appleton; William Stern, Arthur Briscoe and Robert Herzheim, New London.

APOLLO DUO OFFERS PROGRAM THIS EVENING

The Apollo Duo, musical and dramatic entertainers of the school leycum course, will appear in a special public program at 8 o'clock tonight at Rosevelt Junior high school under auspices of the Roosevelt Parent-Teachers' association.

The Duo composed of Arthur and Alta Wells, presented their leycum program before students this morning at the Junior high school. Mr. Wells is an accomplished musician, playing the banjo, bassoon and saxophone. He is also an artist at ideal stories and readings. Mrs. Wells will assist with piano selections and saxophone novelties.

Many Important Events Scheduled For December

December, the month of tinkling bells, red and green wreaths, and a spirit of goodwill, will be an exceedingly busy one for Appleton people. Scores of important events must be sandwiched in between the rush of Christmas shopping and the actual trimming of the Christmas tree.

The all-important matter for next week is the poor relief drive, which will open Tuesday and close Friday. The goal is $30,000. The annual show of the Fox River Pottery and Pet Stock association also is scheduled for next week opening Wednesday and closing Sunday.

The annual meeting of the valley boy scouts will be held at the Methodist church Thursday, Dec. 10, and on Friday night "House Beautiful," Channing Pollock's play, will be presented at Lawrence Memorial chapel. There also will be a Mutual Tornado alliance conference in Appleton on Friday.

The famous Eagle's card tournament will be held Sunday at Eagle hall, the Hortonville farm institute. It is scheduled for Tuesday and Wednesday, Clark Eichelberger, western representative of the League of Nations will speak in Appleton over the weekend, and on Dec. 18, an All-college Christmas affair will be held at Lawrence.

Sometime during the month, perhaps within the next 10 days, the common council will set the tax levy, and toward the end of the month the tax collection period will begin. The annual budget meetings started Thursday night.

Athletic events for the month include the American Legion fight card, proceeds to go to charity next Tuesday night; the Appleton-Wisconsin Rapids basketball game at Wisconsin Rapids Friday; the Lawrence-St. Norbert's college game next Thursday, the Lawrence and Marquette Teachers College game at Marquette, Mich., Dec. 11; Appleton-East Green Bay game at Green Bay, Dec. 11; Lawrence versus Michigan School of Mines at Houghton, Mich., Dec. 17; Lawrence and Marquette at Milwaukee, Dec. 18, and the Appleton-Manitowoc game in Appleton, Dec. 23.

Lawrence college and city school's will close Dec. 18 for the Christmas vacation. High School activities include the Dams declamatory contest Monday night, and the Fox River Valley contest at Appleton high school on Dec. 9.

OPTIMISTS PLEDGE SELVES TO HELP IN CHARITY FUND DRIVE

Committee Will Meet Tonight and Plan Community Christmas Tree

Dr. D. S. Rannels, member of the Citizen's Relief Committee, addressed the Optimist club Thursday noon at Conway hotel, outlining plans for the campaign which starts here Tuesday to raise $30,000 for charity.

Support of the Optimist club in the drive was promised. Dr. Rannels also mentioned work the relief committee already has done, especially with reference to the clothing store room which has been established.

The Optimist club and a group from the Lions club will meet at 7:30 tonight to consider final plans for a community Christmas tree which will be erected at the corner of College-ave and Oneida-st. soon.

The tree, which has been secured from the Tipton Lumber company of New London, stands about 55 feet high and will be trimmed by the Wisconsin Michigan Power company after erection by street department employees.

Several holiday activities will center around the site of the tree. Cooperation of the retail division of the chamber of commerce has been assured.

The largest program will be held Saturday evening, Dec. 19, at which time a massed choir will sing Christmas hymns and carols. The Appleton Maennerchor and choirs from five Appleton churches also will appear on the program.

NOTE DECREASE IN POSTAL RECEIPTS

Postal receipts last month declined $1,239.98 compared to the same period last year, according to the monthly report of H. J. Franck, assistant postmaster. Total receipts in November aggregated $19,711.07, compared to $14,931.05 in the same month in 1930.

Stamp sales in November aggregated $12,955.94, excess on sale of stamp paper, $1.07; second class postage collected in money $381.87; postage collected on permit matter, $456.39; miscellaneous receipts, $2.50; and box rent, $5.20.

$100,000 DAM IS COMPLETED AT KAUKAUNA

Save $30,000 in Construction of Project, Says Engineers

Government workmen have completed the new dam across the Fox river at Kaukauna at an approximate cost of $100,000. The appropriation for the dam was $130,000. A small amount of filling along the canal wall remains to be done.

Construction was started in April and at times there were 40 men employed. The dam replaces an old wooden crib and stone structure. Dredges were used to remove the old dam, while coffer dams served to hold the river in check. Dredges used in the work were the Winnebago and the DePere, both government owned. These lifted the stone and wood from the old dam to barges, on which it was transferred to the shore.

Tugs used in hauling the barges carrying materials about were the Neenah, Menasha and Kingfisher. Concrete vats were used to form the coffer dam. These were floated into a position above the dam site, and filled with water. Chained together, a large amount of ground was then dumped about them to prevent water from seeping through where it would interfere with pouring concrete.

Eight sluice gates and the middle section of the dam were placed to start the work of constructing the new dam. After the gates had been placed, work on the south spillway was started. The new dam was slightly longer than the old and a part of the south bank had to be cut away. The new abutment and wing wall was then placed.

Workmen immediately placed the walk over the spillway and sluice section. This walk was built on concrete supports, of steel beams, and planks. The coffer dam was then moved to the site of the north half of the spillway. Here the old dam section was again removed, and concrete for the new spillway poured. The concrete was poured daily, one section being placed at a time. The connection with the guard lock was then strengthened with a concrete wall.

Finally an abutment and wing wall were placed. The wing wall was connected with the canal wall built several years ago by government workmen. Workmen then placed the last section of the walk. A lighting system was installed with lights at regular intervals along the walk. Carpenters built a small house in which controls for raising and lowering the sluice gates will be kept.

Carl Hilgenberg was foreman of the crew, and James Bamberg the consulting engineer.

COLLEGE GETS BOUND COPIES OF MAGAZINE

The bound copies of the "Wisconsin Christian Advocate," including all the issues of the last two years, have been received by the Lawrence college library, a gift from Mrs. A. J. Wisconsin industries have furnished the people of this country with many products that have been of benefit to humanity.

One of the finest of these products of home industry is the Buckstaff Burial Vault. It provides comfort for the bereaved, and knowledge that their departed are afforded lasting protection from ground waters and burrowing animals.

This protection adds only moderately to the cost of the funeral, but the value of the lasting comfort it provides is immeasurable.

Complete Government Dam at Kaukauna

Above is the new $100,000 dam just completed across the Fox river at Kaukauna by the United States War department. Construction was started last April and about 40 men were given employment on the project when building was at its height. The dam replaces an old wooden crib and stone structure. There are eight sluice gates in the middle section of the dam, with spillways on either side of the gates.

RISKE RELEASED ON $5,000 BAIL

New London Man Granted Liberty Pending New Trial in Spring

Waupaca. — (AP) — Released on $5,000 bail, Edward Riske, New London, recently convicted of the poison slaying of Louis Hoffman, was at liberty today pending a new trial at the spring term of circuit court. Riske was committed to the county jail here shortly after Hoffman and Henry Kopitzke died of drinking poisoned liquor at a barn dance near Weyauwega last June 20, and Mrs. Hoffman committed suicide by drowning. Judge Byron E. Park granted Riske a rehearing on his conviction of first degree murder.

POLICE FIND STOLEN MILWAUKEE CAR HERE

A Chevrolet coupe, recovered here yesterday on N. Morrison-st by Officers Earl Thomas and Alfred Goshka, was returned to its owner, C. K. Turk, South Wauwatosa. The car had been abandoned by the thieves who stole it at Milwaukee several days ago. It had not been damaged. The owner came to Appleton last night to get the machine.

COLLEGE HONORS MEMORY OF FORMER DEAN AT MARQUETTE

There is now on the Lawrence college campus a memorial to the late Max Schoetz, formerly dean of the Marquette University law school.

The memorial is a hedge along the eastern end of the campus. It will be marked with a bronze plate. A gift to the college in Mr. Schoetz's will was used for planting of cotoneaster acutifolia.

Mr. Schoetz graduated with an A. B. degree from Lawrence in 1902, and from the University of Wisconsin law school with a Bachelor of Laws degree in 1905. He practiced law in Milwaukee, at the same time acting as dean of the law school at Marquette. He was treasurer of the Interstate Exchange Insurance company, vice president of a state bank, member of Phi Alpha Delta law fraternity, Order of the Coif, and of Sigma Tau Mu, of Lawrence college.

THE PARKING ORDINANCE
Enforcement of automobile parking ordinances as they pertain to daytime parking on business streets seems to be in such state of confusion that no one knows what the situation is. Enforcement is sporadic, with wholesale tagging at intervals and little or no attention at other times.

There is no question that the chief offenders against the ordinance are the men who have businesses on the streets where parking is restricted. These include the merchants and professional men, the very persons that the ordinance was expected to help by providing parking places for their prospective customers.

At the present moment the city council is considering a change in the ordinance applying to bus stops in the hope that it will result in providing space for forty or fifty more cars. It seems to us that the council could do more to help the situation by leaving the bus stops as they are and by insisting upon reasonable enforcement of the ordinances now on the books. If merchants and professional men are compelled to find places off the main business streets for their personal all day parking there would be plenty of spaces for the short period parking of people doing business in the stores and offices.

It would appear that the men who profit most from restricted parking should be most eager to cooperate in enforcement of the ordinance, but experience seems to indicate that many of the men who complain most vehemently about inadequate parking facilities for their customers are the ones who occupy business street parking places with their own cars. Then when their machines are tagged they use their influence to keep out of court, thereby engendering even more contempt for the ordinance.

The only sensible course is either to enforce the ordinance or remove it from the books. As it is now the ordinance serves only to frighten away prospective customers, while violators go scot free.

ANGRY JUSTICE
What would be a fair punishment for Orlando Spartaco, the 26 year old Anti-Fascist who leaped upon the running board of Signor Grandi's auto in Philadelphia screaming "Down with Mussolini! Down with Grandi! You're murdering our Italian youth!" He had no weapon. He made no effort to do physical harm to anyone. He just made a boorish nuisance of himself.

Judge McDevitt, who carries the well earned sobriquet of "Hardboiled Harry," sentenced this man to two years imprisonment, the charge being "inciting to a riot" which is, admittedly, a serious offense. He justified the severity of his action "as a notice to others in the city who have communistic tendencies." So the loquacious Cicero who snatches a place on the program with his carefully prepared and grandiloquent words is a communist too. Someone is color-blind.

To the credit of Signor Grandi he wrote Governor Pinchot of Pennsylvania denying any intention of interfering with the administration of justice in this country but appealing to the governor to extend clemency to the convicted person.

This outrageous sentence struck one involved in what we are told, though perhaps incorrectly, in a harsh regime in Italy, as requiring clemency. Though the Pennsylvania governor cannot act without a recommendation from the board of pardons it is most unlikely that Spartaco will be kept in jail much longer than 30 days, a suitable enough punishment for his offense which at the most showed abominable manners, and, of course, accomplished no good and was incapable of accomplishing good.

So far as violence to justice is concerned Spartaco's offense was less in magnitude than that of the judge who sentenced him.

THE CASE OF JAPAN.
The Oriental hasn't many friends. Perhaps this condition is caused by the misunderstandings that arise on account of the great language difficulties.

But a cause for Japan's recent apprehension, aside from the right or wrong of its position in Manchuria, is not difficult to find.

For over a hundred years Japan has witnessed a constant encroachment in Asia by European nations. Siberia has been absorbed by Russia during that time, taken by brute force. Russia at one time crossed the Pacific and held Alaska, until, in 1867, we purchased it.

Great Britain, France, Germany, Spain, Holland, all have been steadily closing in on southern Asia, exacting a military control here, a commercial control there, but always, however slowly, absorbing territory or commercial rights.

Japan's victory over Russia of 1905 probably saved her from subservency and, apparently, saved China or at least North China from the bear.

In the Western Hemisphere we look with complacency on the Monroe Doctrine. We take it as a matter of right. Have we not announced it? Is that not sufficient for the rest of the world? But the world may look upon it as a somewhat selfish assertion.

Japan has seen and admired our Monroe Doctrine and probably would like to apply it to Asia to stop not only the commercial rivalry, but the menacing aggression now by one nation and now by another, just as circumstances and conditions seem to permit an advance.

Japan has been touching elbows right along with Russia. It has had to daily face the stab-in-the-back methods of Moscow. It has been compelled to follow a course somewhat, at least, in keeping with dignity and honor in combatting a nation that knows the meaning of neither word.

Since the recent mixup caused by the too hasty conclusion of Secretary Stimson, Japan's difficulty in running its own military operations has come to life. Tokyo is having trouble controlling its own army. Military commanders in the field are sometimes overcome by the lust of battle. Leastwise it appears that Japan has had difficulty in bringing General Honjo into obedience to the civil government and curbing his advances.

Of course, our position must be one of impartiality between China and Japan. There is no sense in becoming irate or flying to arms over the meager news that travels ten thousand miles before it gets to us, and cannot give anything approaching an accurate picture of the situation. A nation in the thick of a fight with its soldiers filling graves and hospitals is likely to fly off the handle quicker than another because the hot blood of battle has aroused its fury.

We can afford to wait a few weeks or months during which time all the facts may be gathered and a more sensible judgment result.

Opinions Of Others

PAVED STREETS
As the drop of water wears away stone, so our repeated appeals have finally begun to make an impression upon the government the matter of paved streets. There had been too long official indifference in this respect, the authorities being content, apparently, so long as the main arteries of traffic were improved, while the streets leading into them remained in a state of primitive neglect, and during some periods practically impassable.

The most needed promotion in Barranquilla is better streets, and not only from the consideration of convenience and facility, but from the even more important claims of health, sanitation and appearance. Visitors to this port form a lamentable poor opinion of our civic pride and progressiveness when they behold the disgraceful spectacles characterized principally by mud and refuse which we fatuously designate as "avenues."

The municipality should first turn its attention to the chief channels of communication between the wharves and the central business and hotel districts in order that we may escape the obnoxious sight of the city, perhaps only once in a while, or but a day or two. We have long entertained the suspicion that there are few, if any, urban centers in civilization where such conditions as have been typical of the thoroughfares of Barranquilla would be tolerated either by the public or the authorities.

Our laxity and unconcern have virtually made Articles 705, 706 and 707 of the Police Code a dead letter. According to the provisions of these ordinances it is a punitive offense to throw rubbish, domestic refuse or litter of any description into the streets, courtyards, plazas or other public places because of the prejudices to health, cleanliness and order.

From the present prevalence of these abuses it would seem that it will still be necessary after all our streets are paved to educate some of the populace in matters of public decency. We congratulate the council in having made a start in the right direction.—Barranquilla (Colombia) Diario Del Comercio.

THEY say that Congress will do some voting on the dry law early in the session . . . well, if the boys can get into a good discussion of prohibition, maybe they won't be able to get at the business of taxation and relief before Christmas . . . and we'll have something to be happy about on the 25th of December . . . happy because nothing has happened as yet . . . and anyway, no matter what Congress does, the effects of it won't be shown for at least a year and by that time things may be a lot different . . . no, Tillie, not worse . . .

If we look a bit smeared and glazed for the next couple of days, don't wonder. We just read where by waxing and polishing a stream-lined locomotive, engineers were able to cut wind resistance down 10 per cent and thereby made the engine go faster.

Maybe our galumphing callopes isn't a stream-lined locomotive, but that wind-resistance business is interesting. And there's a lot more wind resistance in winter.

So bring on the wax.

As this was written yesterday, it was not yet known whether the ax was to be applied to Glenn Thistlethwaite, University of Wisconsin football coach, or whether he was to be asked to stay. It seems odd that the combination which makes a winning football team at the state university almost an impossibility, is the same combination which is gunning for the coach.

That's the combination of Milwaukee alumni and newspapers, the Chicago alumni, the barber shop coaches and the prom crowd.

You can be a championship coach at any other school but you're a bum at Wisconsin.

Down in Florida you can be idle if you have money but if you're broke you can't be idle. Figure it out for yourself. Reason: all unemployed wanderers have been put in the hobo express and sent north for the past two years. This year the plan hasn't worked so well, though. Not all the counties are cooperating.

State conservation leaders are looking for jokers in the new tax bills now up before the Wisconsin legislature. And they have nothing at all on Mister Average Citizen.

The gent in Pittsburgh who broke his leg turning over in bed has been attracting a lot of newspaper space. It just goes to prove that a man isn't safe anywhere any more.

Up in Whitewater, the Wisconsin Turkey association is going to have a dressed turkey show. It may get across now, but just a week ago a turkey show wouldn't have attracted anyone. We know people who would have taken a dish of spinach in preference to a nice dressed turkey.

What's happened to all the crises in Manchuria?

PLAYING FATHER

I notice when they're playing house, Miss Janet wants to be the mother in the flowing gown to sit and serve the tea. And always there's an argument that endless seems to run. No child likes playing father, for it isn't any fun!

Now one will be the servant girl, and one will be the nurse. And very gayly day by day these roles will they rehearse. But when they come to settle which will play the father's part. As sure as I am telling tales a quarrel's bound to start.

It seems these little mimics, aping grownups ways and airs. Have learned that it is father who must carry in the chairs. It's father who must do the work and all the errands run. And if they make you be the man you can't have any fun.

I chuckle as I watch them, with Miss Janet pouring tea. And giving orders to the child who's imitating me. I love this childish drama, but I'd tell 'em every one. That after all their father really has a lot of fun!

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Friday, Dec. 7, 1906
Miss Anna Musch, Appleton, and Henry Wolter, Big Falls, Waupaca-co, were married at 2:30 the previous afternoon by Justice Cook.

C. Schmidt was elected noble grand of Rhine lodge local No. 133 at the business meeting the previous evening.

P. B. Hammel was elected chancellor commander of Knights of Pythias at the meeting the preceding evening.

Henry Jansen had returned to his home in Appleton after spending a few days with J. M. Eli at Green Bay.

Henry D. Ryan was in Milwaukee the previous day on business.

Col. E. P. Hatch, a veteran of the Civil war, was in the city for a few days as the guest of his brother, R. A. Hatch, and family.

TEN YEARS AGO

Friday, Dec. 2, 1921

Charles W. Morse, the American shipbuilder financier, whose apprehension in connection with the alleged shipping trusts had been requested by the United States government, was allowed to land from the liner Paris upon his arrival at Harve that day.

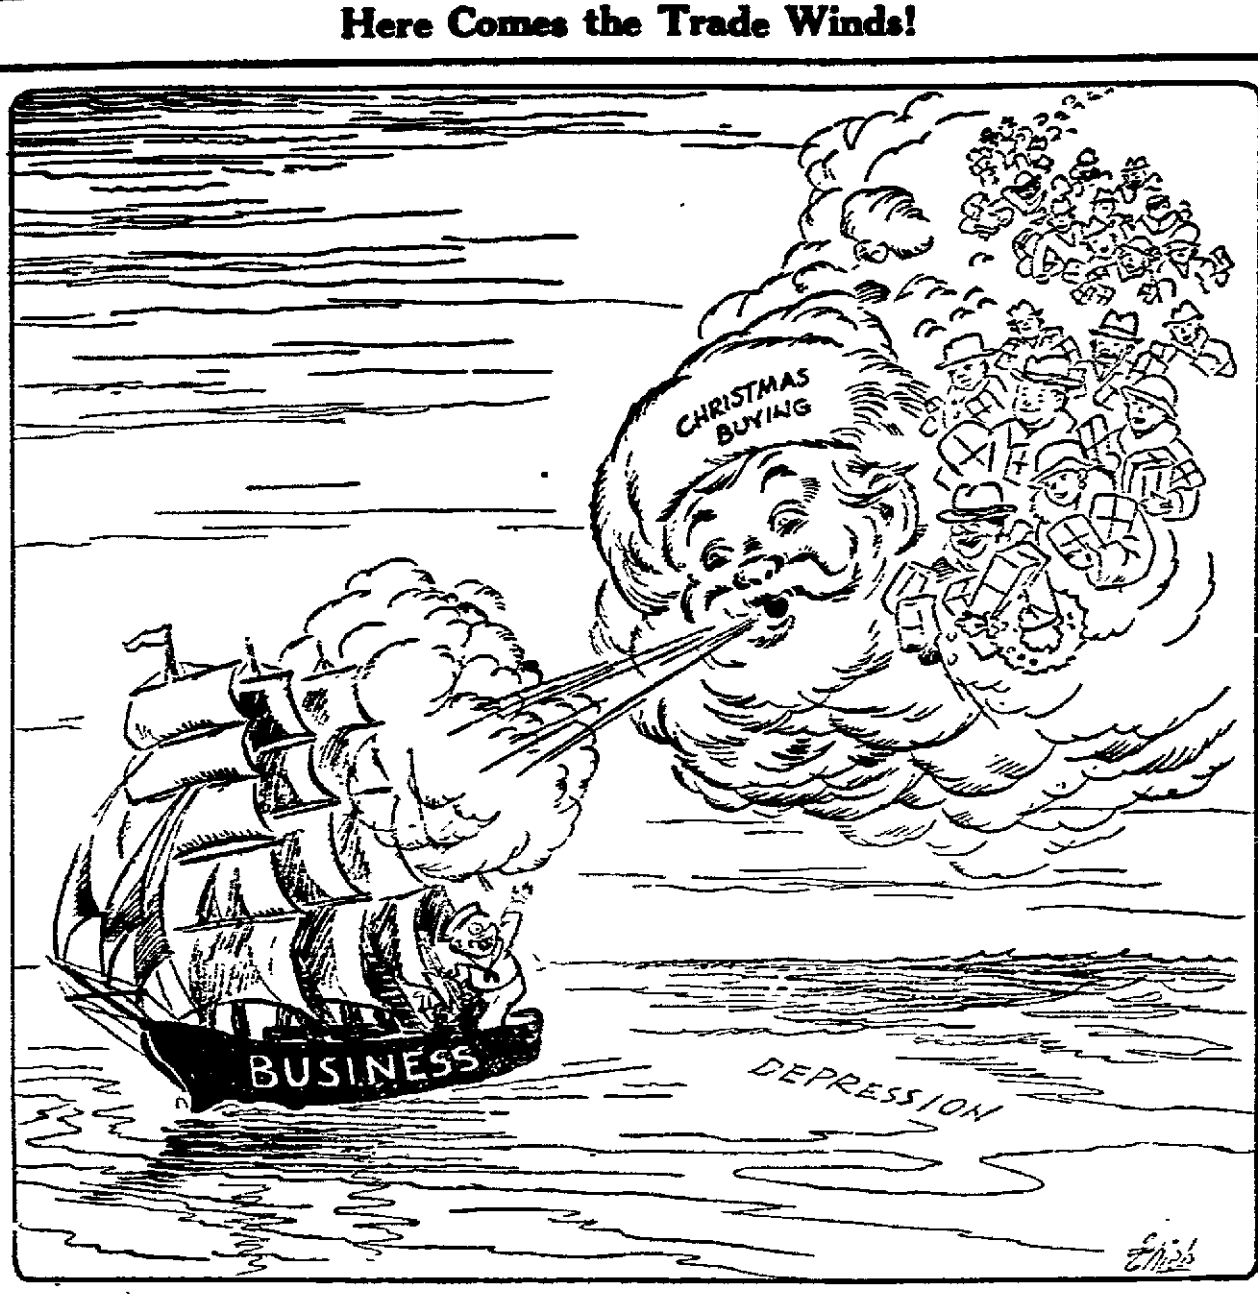

A son was born that morning to Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Prebe, 902 Drew-st.

Applications for marriage licenses had been made at the office of the county clerk by V. J. Whelan and Mary T. Conkey, both of Appleton; Harry McGill and Frances Thomack, both of Appleton.

Mrs. Emma Delbridge was elected worthy high priestess of Valley Shrine, No. 10 at the business meeting the previous evening at Masonic hall.

Elmer Root was elected chancellor commander of Knights of Pythias at a meeting the previous evening at Castle hall.

A daughter was born the previous Wednesday to Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Kampe.

RADIANT HEAT IS HYGIENIC AND COMFORTABLE

A business girl in the cold north-west stood it as long as she could and then delivered to me this stinging rebuke:

"If you sat in this office for eight hours a day, with various windows open from the top, ventilators at bottom, transoms open over the doors . . . Well, moving air is all right for a blacksmith shop with a nice fire roaring close at hand, but good Lord man there is a place for everything."

The young woman had just expressed the opinion that I belonged in a blacksmith's shop, and I calculate (naturally I'd say guess, and generally I say reckon) there are plenty of occasions when and plenty of unoffending folk who wish me in a warmer place than a blacksmith shop.

At that, this cold hot business girl said something when she referred to the uncomfortable warmth of the forge. Radiant heat given off by live coal, incandescent elements, the flame of any fire, is like the heat of the sun—it warms your body and it warms any surface it strikes, even the air temperature in the room is too low for comfort for a sitting or resting individual.

There's more than just cheer in an open fireplace with a wood, gas, coal fire or incandescent electric heating equipment in it. Such heat is actually warmer than the heat from a radiator or hot air furnace or any kind of enclosed stove. Radiant heat warms your body, the furniture, walls, floors, without overheating the air in the room. All other kinds of heat have to cook the air or at least warm it up to an unhygienic degree before they can make resting occupants warm enough.

So it is good hygiene, as well as good living and good cheer, to have some kind of open fire in the living room. Even an oil or gas stove that has radiant elements which glow when heated is desirable if a wood or coal burning fireplace is not available.

Of course any such heater, except electric, must have proper connection with the flue or chimney to carry the products of the combustion out of the house. There is a menace to health in any kind of fuel-burning stove or heater if the combustion products carry the house if there is a screen made of ordinary untempered metal. This will give enough ventilation to prevent asphyxiation of the sleeper in the night in case the stove goes wrong and gives off a large amount of carbon monoxide. It is a foolhardy thing to take a bath in a small room with an oil or gas heater going and no window open for ventilation.

Radiant heat does not dry out the air so excessively as steam heat, hot water vapor or hot air furnace. Radiant heat from whatever source is a good thing. Turn it on for good health.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

The Wine and Blood Delusion
I have been told that good grape wine is good for one's blood. When is the best time to drink it? (S. A.)

Answer—You are misinformed. The fresh grape juice is a good wholesome food, but it loses more or less of its nutritive value for the blood or other tissues when it is fermented.

Hold the Breath for Hiccoughs
Why does one's holding breath breath put an end to an attack of hiccoughs? (Mrs. H. A. D.)

Answer—Because it surcharges the blood with carbon dioxide which is the most powerful stimulant to the respiratory center. Another method, dry, 190.

And now they're developing a plane to go 100 miles an hour. Getting so a man won't have any excuse for not getting home in time for supper.

Will Durant says the home has been destroyed by science. Well, science will have to fight that non-or out with prohibition.

An astrologer says Tunny's son will like wine, woman and song. Goodness! And with the country dry, 190.

Seen And Heard In New York

BY WILLIAM GAINES

New York — "Poetic justice, I guess," says Mr. William Gaines with something of a flip manner.

He refers to his luck in getting what he considers a good role in pictures after a string of "bad ones" had just about put him on the shelf of his own antique shop.

A string of roles which he believed inadequate did remove Gaines from the ranks of stardom. Indirectly it did, perhaps we should explain, for his want of popularity won him nothing in the way of concessions when option time came under his old starring contract.

So Gaines fell from the heights September 12, last, and here he has bounced back up as a featured player to regain and apparently also his popularity.

Restored Idol

Haines lured quite a group to the stage door every time he was due to enter or leave the theater here where he made personal appearances.

On one occasion, when he had shaken his coat-tails free of admirers and gained a seat in a taxi, two girls hopped in before he could get the door closed. One sat on each side of the actor and they insisted upon accompanying him wherever he might be going.

"They said they just wanted to see if I looked and acted the same off the screen as I do on," says William. "When the cab reached my destination, 270 Park avenue, they got out too and left me, peaceably enough."

"They were a couple of stenographers from down town."

This was Haines' first appearance on any New York stage and the previous week, in Baltimore, he made his first appearance on any stage, any time. He rather liked the experience.

"Cupid" Ainsworth of San Francisco, a lady of most ample proportions, was the "stooge" for Haines in some of his typical buffoonery.

The wise cracking gentleman got his training for sassy screen roles as an office boy in this city. If you've ever had any experience with New York office boys, you know that some of them can be very sassy and, when they should be working, spend their time thinking up wisecracks.

Winning a "new face" contest lifted him out of the office and into Hollywood, Eleanor Boardman was the feminine winner, and she and Haines still are great friends.

Haines' schooling was over when he was 12 years old. Born in Staunton, Va., his family, he says, was one of those "old southern families" old enough to have to work for a living.

From this situation he gained his fondness for antiques, he says, adding: "I was particularly fond of my old aunts."

Strictly Fresh
Some baggage car men and truck drivers who never raised a chicken are making pocket money out of fresh eggs.

Quantities of country chickens, consigned to the local markets, lay eggs when en route by train or truck. Their escorts collect the hen fruit and make sales here.

There is a fifth Marx brother, who was known as Gummo. He now sells women's wear. The real names of the Marxes are Leonard, Arthur, Milton, Julius and Herbert.

Headline: "Comb Wood for Hunter." Sort of getting him down to a hare.

Not even in the "good old days" did you choose from such suits at $25

Back in 1915, when you were not so bald or wise, you perhaps bought a fine Easter or Christmas suit for $25.

BUT IT WASN'T ANYTHING LIKE THE SUIT YOU CAN HAVE TODAY for $25.

It didn't have the style . . . and it lacked the tailoring. It wasn't even as good a fabric . . . and it didn't look half as well on you then, when you were younger, as this suit will today when you need the youth.

Before Christmas is the time to see this suit that you've never seen before.

MESSAGE MAY HELP FIND WAY OUT OF CRISIS

Railroads and Foreign Trade
Two Biggest Obstacles
at Present

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright, 1931, By Post Pub. Co.
Washington — Although officials are naturally reticent to discuss proposals that are embodied in President Hoover's forthcoming message to congress, it is apparent that the communication by the chief executive and his recommendations for emergency measures are depended upon to furnish in a few days the basis for new hopes for the solution of the nation's economic problems.

The central point on which already the financial interests of the country are converging is the possible help that may be extended to the railroads and foreign trade financing through the formation of the proposed government finance corporation with a thousand million dollars as its capital structure and patterned after the operations of the war finance corporation, which was revived in 1917 as a piece of emergency machinery of post-war days.

Ever since the president made an announcement on Oct. 3 of his intention to recommend such an organization, if necessary, there has been little said about it publicly. The truth is it had been hoped the step would not be necessary but the disintegration of the long-term money market, that is the fall in bonds, has made the refinancing of railroads next year and the general problem of capital for industry somewhat acute.

Fear Effect on Industry
It is not simply that certain railroads and other corporations will have to suffer some de-capitalization but the fear now is that such a painful deflation will carry with it devastating effects on industry generally and prolong the depression.

There has been a persistent report, too, that the president at his now famous conference with the bankers prior to the formation of the National Credit Corporation promises the setting up of the billion dollar finance corporation as a sort of back-stop to the credit pool. The belief at the time was that the $300,000,000 credit corporation might not be adequate. Since then, however, while the corporation has been set up and is functioning it has made relatively few loans. Whether this is because the situation in the banks generally has improved, or because the credit corporation is itself operating on an extremely conservative basis pending the formation of the emergency finance corporation, is not clear.

Certainly the plight of the railroads has revived the whole question of financial aid from some source and there is a distinct feeling here that if the Interstate Commerce commission and the Railroads could get together on the Railroads Credit corporation the horizon might be brighter. Also there is a growing dissatisfaction expressed here with the executives of both the railroads and labor organizations because more progress toward an agreement has not been made.

The hope now is that when the railroad labor leaders meet in Chicago next Wednesday some counter-proposal of a constructive character may come out which will lead to further negotiations on the rail wage problem.

May Depend on Public
Even banking leaders are beginning to indicate a belief that the public interest must express itself in some way to bring pressure on the rival groups in the railroad controversy so that, as one of them expressed it, there will be "less standoffishness and more realization that a crisis is impending."

Generally speaking, government officials who are watching the railroad situation were not surprised at the Wabash receivership for they have thought all along that the elements in the railroad situation were rather resentful of government efforts at acceleration and yet were procrastinating at a time when the whole security market was being dragged down by the failure of the railroad leaders to get an agreement among themselves on their own problems, especially in the handling of the labor question.

Some decision from the Interstate Commerce commission is expected within the next few days on the latest plan of the railroads for a credit pool corporation based on the proposed increased revenues from new freight rates. Regret is expressed on every side that the plan could not have been put into effect soon enough to avert the Wabash receivership.

Apart from the railroad crisis, there is in the offing the financial situation as it affects Germany. The short term credits extended by American banks have become a vital factor in the desire to find a solution. Efforts to persuade the federal reserve system to become a part of the payers abroad are not succeeding, though the German government feels that such a participation would stress the financial and economic rather than political circumstances in any new plan for German finances. It has been hoped by the Germans that Eugene Meyer, governor of the federal reserve board, would accept the leadership in the payers very much as did Charles G. Dawes and later Owen D. Young. This is not considered likely for it has been a matter of criticism already by members of congress that the federal reserve system has engaged itself in the extension of foreign credits. The prospects are that American Ambassador Dawes may be drafted as an adviser, but it is not probable that any official participation in the reparations conferences will be sanctioned.

As between the foreign and domestic situations, it is conceded now in official quarters that the most immediate and serious situation is at home in the financial affairs of America's railroads and that until a start has been made on that problem the general course of recovery will tend to hesitate. Mr. Hoover's recommendations to congress are expected to touch on the whole field of reconstruction and there is a hopeful feeling here that the message will prove a turning point toward decisive action on matters which have for several months been drifting due to the absence of the legislative branch of the government.

LIBRARY CIRCULATES
18,900 BOOKS IN MONTH

A total of 18,900 books were circulated at the Appleton public library during November, according to the monthly report of Miss Florence Day, librarian. Of this number 13,360 were fiction, 4,941 non-fiction, 169 foreign, and 233 unbound periodicals. Five clippings and 157 pictures were loaned, and 24 books were received as gifts.

With the addition of $5 books, the number of volumes in the library was increased to 35,799 during the month.

At the beginning of the month there were 11,129 borrowed, and with the registration of 245 registrations, the total on Nov. 30 was 11,374. Of these, 778 live outside of the city, and two outside of the county.

Rev. Reuter Is Leader Of Aid Society

THE Rev. F. C. Reuter was elected president of the Ladies Aid society of First English Lutheran church at the meeting of the Aid and Mission societies Thursday afternoon at Castle hall. Mrs. Elmer Schabo was chosen president of the Missionary society. After the first of the year, the two groups will merge and carry on as one organization.

Other officers of the Aid society elected Thursday include: Mrs. G. Radtke, vice president; Mrs. F. Koch, recording secretary; Mrs. W. Koerner, financial secretary; Mrs. C. Griest, treasurer; Mrs. Ray DeLong, treasurer of the church.

A committee was appointed to buy equipment for the new kitchen. It includes Mrs. Albert Kranzsch, Mrs. F. C. Reuter, Mrs. A. Lautenschlager, Mrs. C. Huestmann, and Mrs. F. Koch. Mrs. W. Plamann, chairman of the Christmas bazaar, reported on the event which will be held next Tuesday at the Kuntz home on W. Washington-st. A luncheon and supper will be served, and features of the bazaar will be a fancy work box, a Japanese gift box, and bakery.

Fifty members attended the meeting.

She Lives in Past Once a Year

A "great lady" of the past? No, Signorina Italia Almirante, above, is a modern Italian noblewoman. But once a year she retires to her country estate, ignores her up-to-date Paris wardrobe, and for seven days wears this picturesque medieval costume. The ceremony is required under the terms of the will of her father, the late Count Almirante.

Mrs. Huetter Is Reelected Lodge Leader

Mrs. Lucy Huetter was reelected orator of Royal Neighbors at the annual meeting Thursday night at Odd Fellow hall. Others who were reelected include Mrs. Augusta Lueders, past orator; Mrs. Frances Schmidt, recorder; Mrs. Minnie Hoegriever, receiver; Mrs. Ruth Peebles, chancellor; Mrs. Hazel Kasten, marshal; Mrs. Adora Hauert, manager; Miss Selma Markle, musician; and Dr. H. E. Ellsworth and Dr. William Felton, physicians. New officers are Mrs. Minnie Christensen, vice orator; Mrs. Ella Trautner, inner sentinel; and Mrs. Irene Wormwood, outer sentinel.

Arrangements were made for the annual Christmas party for adult and juvenile members and children of members which will be held Dec. 17 at Odd Fellow hall. The party will begin at 7:45 in the evening. Gifts will be exchanged among the adults, and there will be gifts for the children. A Christmas tree and Santa Claus will be features of the event. The committee in charge includes Mrs. Lucy Huetter, chairman; Mrs. Ruth Peebles, Mrs. Irene Wormwood, Mrs. Anna Hackleman, Mrs. Pauline Gerou, and Miss Irene Schmit.

Sixty-eight members were present. Installation of officers will take place in January.

ARTIST PLAYS ORGAN RECITAL FRIDAY NIGHT

An organ concert will be played by Edward Rechlin, New York City, one of the world's foremost interpreters of Johann Sebastian Bach and contemporaries, at Mount Olive Lutheran church at 8 o'clock to-night.

Mr. Rechlin has presented concerts throughout the United States and Europe.

Plan White Gift Party For Children

CHILDREN of members of the American Legion and Auxiliary will be entertained at a "white gift" Christmas party on Dec. 21 at Odd Fellow hall. The party will begin at 6:30. Each child will bring either a toy for which he no longer has use, or some article of food which may be used in filling Christmas baskets.

The regular meeting of the Auxiliary has been suspended for this month, as the party falls on the meeting night.

The children will provide the entertainment. Any child who wishes to take part may notify Mrs. Gordon Fish, who is arranging the program. It will consist of songs, recitations, musical numbers, and stunts. Santa Claus will be present and there will be a Christmas tree.

Mrs. Quandt President of Church Body

Mrs. Walter Quandt was elected president of the Missionary society of Trinity English Lutheran church at the meeting Thursday afternoon at the church. Mrs. Quandt is a member of the board of the Fox River Valley Missionary Federation. The new officers will be installed the first Sunday in January at the church service led by Rev. D. D. Bossmann.

A social hour followed the meeting which was attended by 30 members and two visitors. Hostesses were Mrs. Pauline Lybourn, Mrs. P. Peeble, and Mrs. H. Young.

ART EXHIBIT TO BE STUDIED BY A. A. U. W.

Members of the American Association University Women will view the art exhibit and display of rental pictures at the Lawrence college library after the meeting of the association Friday night at the home of Mrs. H. M. Wriston, 211 S. Union-st. The art exhibits include a group of colored reproductions of modern European paintings, a display of original etchings of dogs by Morgan Dennis, and the annual exhibit of soap carving.

The rental pictures are on display downstairs in the library along with a layout of materials used in the lithographic process.

Miss Anna Marie Schaefer, an exchange teacher from Wengen, Westfalen, Germany, will talk to the members at their meeting on the German school system.

Parties

Seventeen tables of cards were in play at the benefit bridge given by the Covered bridge troop of scout girls Thursday evening at the American Woman's club. The troop consisted in charge includes Mrs. Walter Monme, scout leader; Mrs. Mary Rancier; Mrs. F. Belmont; Mrs. Martin Williams. Part of the proceeds will go toward the troop fund for schoolchildren.

Each game was in charge of a hostess, including Mrs. Eleanor Cavanaugh at schabkopf; Mrs. Martin Williams at bridge and Miss Irene Williams at dice. The Girl Scouts held their own dice game with Miss Margaret Williams winning first place.

Past Matrons of Eastern Star were entertained at a 1:30 luncheon Thursday at Conway hotel. Covers were laid for 17 persons. Bridge followed the luncheon.

Miss Annette Kronschnabel, 924 E. Franklin-st. entertained her bridge club at her home Thursday evening. Prize winners were the Misses Katherine Keller and Beth

Play Square With Timid Boys, Girls

BEANS, it must be confessed, did not look like a regular boy. He was thin. His hands were long and white. His clothes were always brushed, his collar clean, his hair shining, though tussled and falling in a thatch over his eyes. He spoke in a girlish voice when he spoke at all, which was seldom. His eyes were remarkable. Big, dark, shining, they seemed to have infinite depth and always to be looking by you to what lay beyond some where on an unseen horizon. More than all, he wore glasses that he refused to budge out of his seat and stubbornly shut his lips against a sound.

He had no friends until he met the music teacher. He could play the piano like a master. He could play any musical instrument the orchestra furnished. Music was his whole existence and his sole delight. He stayed after school, he came ahead of time, he went without lunch, if there was a chance, to get in an extra period of music anywhere, anytime, throughout the day.

One day the teacher who played the piano for assembly was not present. Nobody was at liberty and it looked as though the school must march and sing and go on its morning way without the help of music. Then the teacher in charge had a happy idea. "Is there anybody here who can take Miss Lucia's place at the piano and lead the singing and the orchestra?"

The teachers looked at each other and stood firm to a man. No help from them. Then somebody stirred in the group over by the door and a skinny little figure wormed its way through the benches and out to the main aisle. Beans was going to the piano. Everybody strained his neck to see and a twittering ran through the big room, a twittering that threatened to become an out and out roar of laughter. Before it could gather force enough for the outbreak Beans turned and faced the great group of children, shook back his hair, settled his absurd specs upon his ridiculous little nose, threw back his head and lifted his hands.

Did they sing? Beans did whatever he liked with them. They hung on the ends of his fingers. He might not be able to swim, he might not be able to catch a ball. But he could play. In his field he was master and the school acknowledged it ungrudgingly. From then on he was "Professor" or "Beans."

I have told you about our Beans because maybe you have one of your own and you are worried because he isn't like other boys. Suppose he is just himself? Wouldn't that be enough? It is all any of us can be. Why demand of a child what is not his to give? Why make a goose of a swan?

EX-ROYALTY TALKS ABOUT CRIME KINGS, CAPONE AND DIAMOND

New York — (AP)—What does an unemployed king talk about when he meets a grand duke who also lost his place?

One answer to that question, according to Grand Duke Alexander of Russia, is "Al Capone, Legs Diamonds and pinnapples."

The grand duke, brother-in-law of the slain czar of Russia, writes in the January issue of Red Book magazine an account of how he visited former King Alfonso of Spain and his family in their exile at Fontainebleau.

He found the king, he said, cheerfully "pretending an interest" in Al Capone and other gangsters in order to entertain his children at dinner.

The grand duke declares he sat down to dinner with the king, the queen, and her apparent, the duke of Asturia; the king's two daughters and their fiancés. In the conversation he chanced to mention the word "Chicago."

The word, he said, performed "a veritable miracle" at this table, where the troubles of the past, present and future were being gravely weighed but a second before.

The "youngsters" asked him if he had ever seen a "pinnapple" thrown out of a judge's house, if he ever met Al Capone or Legs Diamond; if it was true Chicago insurance policyholders have to pay especially high premiums.

And the king chimed in with some smiling questions:

"That is the latest news of that famous Chicagoan? Oh, you know whom I mean—my namesake; I believe they call him 'the King Alfonso of Chicago'."

The king is quoted as saying he has always wanted to visit the United States and would start immediately except for a "fear they would interpret my trip as a mysterious political move."

PLATFORM MAPPED FOR FARMER-LABOR PARTY CONVENTION

Moratorium on Real Estate Foreclosures Among Its Planks

Omaha, Neb.—(AP)—Leaders of the Farmer-Labor party of America said they would present for the approval of the national convention, to open March 2, a platform which included unemployment relief, a five year moratorium on real estate foreclosures, and the immediate suspension of the gold standard.

The unemployment plank provides for immediate federal and state aid to the unemployed, for unemployment insurance, for complete payment of World war compensation and for the feeding and clothing of 1,000,000 single men in army camps.

The real estate moratorium plank calls for federal land banks to refinance small interest-bearing notes needed to sustain life.

An agriculture plank calls for provision of storage facilities by the government to carry grains essential to meet a contingency such as famine or drought and for appointment of officers on the farm board who are "in sympathy with giving aid to American farmers and not to speculators and bankers who are now reaping the profits of agriculture."

Other planks call for gradual tariff reductions; increases in taxes on incomes over $1,500; imposition of an excess profits tax to take all profits over 5 per cent on invested capital; increased inheritance taxes; public ownership of public utilities; a six hour day; abatement of injunctions against labor; total restriction of immigration until the unemployment period has passed; a centralized national defense bureau; and re-

PROBATION OFFICE SETS OFFICE HOURS

Anton Jansen, newly appointed county probation officer and poor commissioner, will maintain office hours from 9 to 12 o'clock each morning at the office of the county clerk at the courthouse. In the afternoon Mr. Jansen will investigate cases for the four courts, circuit, municipal, county and juvenile. He also will devote his afternoons to investigating families receiving old age and mothers pensions.

One of Mr. Jansen's first jobs will be to investigate the claims from the town of Oneida, he said. He expects to spend three full days in that town, devoting one day to old age pension requests one day to mothers' pension requests, and one day to requests for poor aid.

The Story of Sue

by MARGERY HALE
© 1929 by NEA Service, Inc.

WHEN Ruth met Sue's eyes, though, they were so warm and friendly and understanding that she forgot that she had been embarrassed because she thought that Sue had asked Jack to cut in on her while she was dancing with Dr. Raynor. Jack was putting himself out to be charming. And suddenly Ruth discovered that the cutting was just beginning. A strenuous man had appeared this time.

"He would be strange," Ruth told herself. "I'm still a Cinderella to the rest of them. I suppose that the real Cinderella never was a princess to the boys that liked her sisters. Oh, well."

More cutting. The music stopped. An icy voice brought her back.

"Ruth, will you please come outside with me."

It was Sally and her eyes were as cold as glaciers. Meekly, because she had been meek for so many years, Ruth followed her sister down the hall to the dressing room. Fortunately it was empty.

"Now," Sally began and her cheeks were scarlet. "Will you please tell me why you pulled this—this disgraceful stunt?"

"Disgraceful?" Ruth gasped. She saw her reflection in the mirror, gypsy-dark now, and it gave her courage.

"Yes, disgraceful. You stole my dress! You did! I got it today and hadn't had it on yet! And my slippers! Now what will I do?"

Ruth had heard the door opening quickly. Sally was too excited to listen.

She turned, though, as a softer, rather laughing voice, interrupted. "I just wanted to tell you how gorgeously stunning you look, Ruth Bradley," the voice said, and turning, the girls saw Sue Thornton, slim and straight, and lovely in an ivory satin sheath that was close and molding. "Aren't you proud of being the sister of such a charming person, Miss Bradley?" she appealed to Sally.

"The rest of us kind of fade out of the picture beside her golden shinningness."

"It happens to be my dress!" Sally shot the words out.

Sue was trying to signal with her eyes to Ruth to fight. If she would wage a war now she wouldn't have to fight so hard the next time. Or the next. Her lips said one word silently: "Fight!"

Suddenly Ruth's half-fearful look vanished. She threw her head higher.

"This dress—the slippers, too—were bought with my last salary check. The family said you needed them in order to make a catch. And I didn't matter. But I'm good enough to earn the money for your clothes. They are really mine. And so, I'm just taking them!"

"But I have to have a new outfit for tomorrow night!" Sally raged.

"Then earn it!" Ruth shot back. "You'll have to give me money for another one!"

"I haven't any money to give you. This took all I had." She looked down at the glittering dress. "But you can't explain to Dr. Raynor that way," the other girl's voice went on. "He came to see me. And you appropriated him! He has asked me to ditch the man who brought me and go home with him."

"He asked me to come to the dance," Ruth said simply.

"Because he wanted to see me! You were just a tool!"

Sue stood, wanting to leave, wanting to stay. She and Corinne had championed each other, never fought like this. It wasn't fair for one sister to hurt another so cruelly.

An idea danced into her head. "We're leaving now to go to a waffle place . . . a few of us, I mean," she told Ruth. "Because of Nancy our evening is short. And we have an extra man. We want you to come with us, Ruth."

WE WOMEN

By Virginia Vane

SEPARATE LIVES FOR SELF-SUPPORTING WIFE AND JOB-LESS HUSBAND—ADVICE TO DISCOURAGED WORKER

Dear Miss Vane: When I married I had a good position, and my husband had none but confidently expected to have one before the end of the year. I was going to discontinue my work at the end of that year. Instead of that my job changed somewhat and I was sent to another city to go on with my work. I have been a year and a half at it and my husband has been working exactly one month. I have a good paying job and hate to give it up, but feel that I must. We have suffered untold hardships, and now I think I ought to go back to my home town and let him look for a job, instead of me. He says I am crazy to think of giving up a position in these hard times. Will you tell me what to do.

DISCOURAGED WIFE.

Unless you have somewhere to go and live—unless you have people who can feed and clothe you, back in your own home town, it would seem dangerous to throw up a job that pays well—when everyone in the world is hanging on to his job and thanking Providence he has it.

Frankly, your chief idea is to make your husband shift for himself for a while, isn't it? You're more than tired of being the wage-earner and you feel that he ought to get on his feet and do something for himself or you will be the chief support of the family forever.

You are right in not wanting him to get used to your taking care of him. I don't gather from your letter what his attitude is, but unless he's a very spineless sort of individual, he ought to be anxious to find any work which would make him independent of your income. He must feel his position keenly.

Why not let him go back where he expected to find his first job and see what he can do? Why not, in order to avoid endless bickering and constant "approaches on both sides," set up separate establishments for a while, and each do the best he can in his own way.

Possibly your husband would do better in his home town—and for that reason he should return there. But don't simply throw up every means of livelihood in order to teach the man of the house a lesson.

Support yourself and let him support himself, even if it means a long absence. You two will be happier together once you are both on the same basis. And since it is impossible for him to find work where you are, let him go where work is and shift for himself until better times come, and some more happy solution can be devised.

LESIE: I am very sorry to say that this column does not handle questions of the sort contained in your letter. But many of the leading fashion magazines have departments

Carry a bottle of clear vinegar in your automobile. In case windshield wiper on car does not work, vinegar poured over the outside of windshield from the top, will keep shield clear in a heavy rainstorm.

When milk burns, remove from the fire at once, place the saucepan immediately in a basin of cold water, and throw into the milk a pinch of salt. Stir with a spoon, and the burnt taste will disappear.

devoted to answering just such inquiries as yours. There you would get expert advice of the very best.

Worry Decreases Efficiency

PAUL H. Lein's been discouraged. Work as hard as you can and put your best effort into every day's work and let tomorrow take care of itself. Remember that no matter how much worry you do per diem, it isn't going to increase your capabilities or make your salary any larger.

In fact if you are party to constant doubts and fears—if you are continually exclaiming as to what would happen if this and that awful disaster befell you, you'd never get any work done at all. Your present mental attitude will ruin your efficiency if you don't look out, and then you'll actually have something to worry over.

For the present you're in a far better position than most boys of your age, and even though there is a good deal to be discouraged about there is a whole lot more to be grateful for. If you were to see some of my letters from men much older than yourself, utterly hopeless as to their positions, you'd no longer feel sorry for yourself.

Don't look forward or backward. Keep your eye on the main job and bend all your energies to making each day's work a success.

SEEK CLOTHING AND TOYS FOR POOR FAMILIES

Collection to Be Sponsored by Legion Post and Auxiliary

Menasha—A plan to collect and repair clothing and toys for distribution to needy families in Menasha has been launched by Henry J. Lenz, post commander of American Legion and the Legion auxiliary. Dr. G. N. Pratt, post commander, is chairman in charge of the work. He will be assisted by a committee consisting of Carl Decker, Philip Gazecki, and John Beckes of the Legion and Mrs. Anna Fahrback, Mrs. G. N. Pratt and Mrs. Del Mayew of the Legion auxiliary.

A depot for storing the clothing and toys will be established and the work will be done at Christmas time. Those having articles to contribute may notify members of the committee in charge.

DILTS FIVE READY FOR OAKFIELD TILT

St. Mary High School Cagers to Open Season in Out of Town Game

Menasha—The St. Mary basketball squad has completed preparation for its opening game of the season against the Oakfield high school quintet at Oakfield Friday evening. The team, accompanied by a large delegation of St. Mary high school students, was to leave for Oakfield late today.

A battle for first string positions has been in progress during recent practice sessions but Rleschl is Coach Clifford Dilts' probable choice for the center position in the Oakfield game. Cooman and Sulz are expected to appear as forwards while Macklin and Resch perform in the guard positions.

Interest in the Oakfield game has increased during the past few days and a movement to hire a motor truck to allow a number of the students to accompany the team was under way Thursday. The St. Mary cagers will appear in their first home game against the Neenah high school squad Dec. 15.

ELLINGER SUBMITS TO MAJOR OPERATION

Menasha—L. J. Ellinger, money order and registered mail clerk at the Menasha postoffice, submitted to a major operation at Theda Clark hospital Thursday. His condition was reported favorable shortly before noon Friday.

Ellinger was injured in a fall several weeks ago when a platform leading to his boat house on Lake Butte des Morts gave way. The operation Thursday was necessary because of complications indirectly connected with the fall.

HISTORY OF PAPER OUTLINED TO CLASS

Menasha—R. M. Sensesbrenner, an official of the Whiting paper company, outlined the history of the Menasha community school printing class at a meeting in the high school building Thursday evening. Sensesbrenner's talk, in which he outlined the history of paper making from 2,400 years B. C. to the present day, was designed to provide a layman's understanding of the paper industry. The talk was one of a series on industries interlocking with the printing trade. A talk on electrotypes manufacturing will be presented at an early meeting.

EXPECT LARGE CROWD AT HIGH SCHOOL PLAY

Menasha—A large attendance is expected at the presentation of "Once There Was a Princess" by the Menasha high school club in the Butte des Morts auditorium Friday evening. Dress rehearsal was staged at the auditorium Thursday evening under the direction of Miss Margaret O'Neil, high school dramatic instructor.

The play is the first to be produced by the high school dramatic club this season and is presented in a program and stage set by the club and work on the setings late seen under way for several weeks.

ADMIT NEW MEMBERS TO BOY SCOUT TROOP

Menasha—A brief service to feature service, admitting new members to the troop, was conducted by boy scouts of Troop 14 at a meeting in the Congregational church parlors Thursday evening. An inter-matinee contest in scout projects was started and work on the construction and repair of toys for distribution to needy children at Christmas time was continued.

HIGH SCHOOL DEBATORS PREPARE FOR SEASON

Menasha—A squad of about 12 Menasha high school debaters is compiling material on contemporary topics in preparation for interscholastic debate contests during the current season. Work is progressing under the direction of R. J. Fink, high school principal, and information relative to the season's schedule is expected from Wisconsin Forensic league officials this week.

MENASHA BOWLERS TO MEET MILWAUKEE FIVE

Menasha—The Grove City football team, twin city amateur champions, will meet the City Service Oil company eleven of Appleton in a return game at Paver field Sunday afternoon. The Grove squad defeated the Appleton team 9 to 6 at Appleton last Sunday.

The Menasha team, which claims the twin city championship by virtue of wins in two out of three games over the Neenah Bull Dogs, will start its regular lineup in Sunday's tilt with Beech in the quarterback position, Ben and Joseph Nadeck at halves and Stinke at full back.

CUT CAGE SQUAD TO 17 PLAYERS

Final Reduction to Be Made by Coach Calder in Three Weeks

Menasha—The second reduction of the Menasha high school varsity basketball squad, cutting its personnel to 17 players, was made by Coach Nathan Calder Thursday afternoon. The final reduction, diminishing the number of candidates to about 12, will be made within three weeks.

Defensive work has featured nearly all first squad practice sessions during the past week, and a team to meet the Calton quintet in the season's opening game Dec. 15 is taking shape. Captain Astmus is performing in one of the forward positions and Massey, a veteran of last year, apparently has clinched one of the guard posts. Anklim looks well in the remaining forward position. Grade has been working at guard, and Sindahl is one of the most promising candidates for center.

SAYS MODIFICATION OF DRY LAW WOULD BENEFIT FARMERS

Badger Representative Advocates Change in Present Federal Statutes

BY RUBY A. BLACK Post-Crescent Wash. Corrs.

Washington—Legislation to relieve the economic condition of the farmer, to modify the eighteenth amendment, and to liberalize the rules of the house of representatives was advocated Wednesday by Rep. Gardner R. Withrow of La Crosse.

Millions of farmers, he said, will be unable to pay their taxes this year. "Our business depression has lasted only two years," Rep. Withrow said in a formal statement, "while our farmers have been depressed for ten years, and this year find themselves unable, in many cases, to pay even the taxes on their farms. It is small wonder that economic conditions are bad when the buying power of the farmer has been reduced to nothing. Agriculture is our basic industry and attention must be given to the immediate needs of the farmer in order to provide a basic form of depression relief."

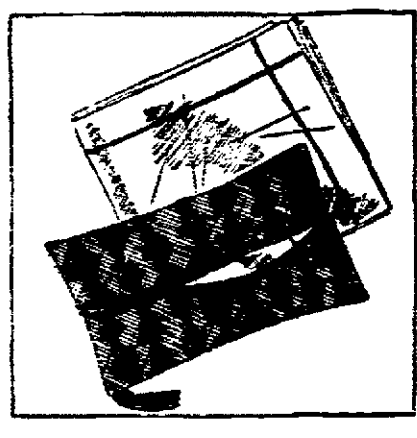

In speaking of revision of the prohibition laws, Rep. Withrow said that a change is necessary "to put an end to the force of prohibition. The manufacture of beer must be put back on a legal basis," he continued. "Bootlegging and gang rule must be stopped and through a moderate tax on beer, much of the burden of property taxation can be lifted from the harassed farmer and home owner."

Abolition of "hoose rule" in the House of Representatives was favored, "in order that the representatives of the people would be enabled to act on and dispose of questions which are of great importance to their constituents."

Rep. Withrow defeated Rep. Meritt Hull of Black River Falls, who was a decided "dry," and the issue between them was primarily prohibition.

"STEER" IS COW
Houston—I. Gross was appealing a $15 fine imposed on him for shipping three steers into the cattle tick eradication area without dipping them. Gross' fine was cut to $10 when Judge Scruggs found the charge faulty. It was shown that one of the "steers" was a cow.

Santa Suggests Traveling Sheets and Pillow Sets

BY LILLIAN

Most folks have at least one friend who is rich, an inveterate traveler and the hardest person in the world to give a Christmas present to.

This year you will have no trouble with this problem. Quite in the luxury class comes a perfectly exquisite satin backed crepe silk set of hand-stitched sheets and slumber pillow cover in the most delicate blue, pink, lavender or green which fit into a zipper pillow case of brown moire silk. Your friends merely hands this case to the porter and he makes up her stateroom with her own sheets and slumber pillow. Or she may use the pillow in the moire case as a daytime comfort.

CLASS TO MAKE STUDY OF WORLD CONDITIONS

From crime detention to the Russian five year plan, the sociology class of Clare Marquette of Appleton high school will make a semester's study of world conditions.

Each student will select a subject and prepare a long paper discussing it. Among the subjects which have been chosen is the study of capital punishment, prison conditions of yesterday and today, an analysis of the family and its present trend in society; a history of poverty and reasons for its existence; the subject of prohibition; an analysis of the jury system; a public utilities; peace and war; the League of Nations and its significance to world peace.

Another subject will be slums in their various environments and results from their existence. Another student has selected the use of third degree for a term paper, in which he will show how it is used to obtain punishment or confession.

848TH GUSHER BROUGHT IN ON OKLAHOMA FIELD

Oldahoma City — (AP) — Three candles on its birthday cake, the Oklahoma City oil field gave a "coming in" party today for its 848th gusher.

In the field just south of the business district, the world's largest sweet oil producers and their little brothers have given up $2,000,000 barrels of oil valued at $58,100,000.

The newest gusher, brought in by the Kessler Oil and Gas company, was a center of attention in the area today.

CAUSE OF WAR SEEN BY GANDHI IN BENGAL LAW

Ordinances Give Government Power to Impose Death Sentences

London—(AP)—Mahatma Gandhi, in a far-reaching interview before his return to India after the second round of the conference, declared he regards the new British government ordinances in Bengal "as a cause of war unless they remain on paper and are not enforced."

"And," he added, "I cannot imagine ordinances of that kind not being enforced."

The new ordinances, promulgated last Monday, give the Bengal government power to impose sentences of death or life exile upon persons convicted of subversive acts against the crown.

The measures were decided upon, it was stated at the time, after it became apparent that the extreme Indian Nationalists would not achieve their demands at the round table conference, creating the prospect of a new fight for Indian independence.

Ordinary laws, the mahatma said, would have been adequate for dealing with the Bengal situation. "These ordinances," he said, "mean legalized martial law. They are unworthy of a strong civilized government."

Asked for a definite decision on whether he would renew his civil disobedience campaign when he returns to India, the mahatma said: "I have had further talks with Prime Minister MacDonald, Sir Samuel Hoare and others, but I have heard nothing to cause me to change my provisional opinion that we have reached the parting of the ways." In any event, he said, the decision will rest with the Nationalist congress.

The congress, he explained, would be justified in instituting civil disobedience in given districts of the Nationalists were unable to obtain redress by other means.

"The terribly repressive ordinance introduced by the viceroy in Bengal, however, may upset all calculations," he added, "and may precipitate civil disobedience, even on a national scale. We cannot stand by and see a whole province emasculated by such measures."

He said he regarded the conference as a "complete failure," but that his coming to England was decidedly worth while. "My work outside the conference has been far more valuable to me than my work inside it," he said.

The house of commons endorsed the government's policy on India last night by a vote of 369 to 43 against an amendment offered by Winston Churchill which would have committed parliament against extending further dominion status in India as it is now defined.

The government's policy, as announced by the prime minister at the close of the round table conference Tuesday calls for eventual establishment of a federation of autonomous provinces and states in India.

Blind Girls Stage Plays In New York

They call their little theatre up on E. 95th-st "The Lighthouse."

New York—(AP)—They call their little theatre up on E. 95th-st "The Lighthouse." Tonight and tomorrow night they will speak the lines and perform the business of three lively one-act comedies.

No mumbling, no stumbling—but it is different than if they were ordinary players.

"They" are five girls—all blind.

The one act plays will open their eighth season and the proceeds will go to the blind unemployed. "The Lighthouse" is sold out and the S. R. O. sign will be up.

A dress rehearsal last night tested their precision. They walked on to their cues, sat in chairs, turned radio dials, opened and closed doors, picked up the telephone, held newspapers and pretended to read—did all the business that ordinary actors do with the aid of eyes, spoke their lines and never groped.

They "looked" at each other. They handed things to each other.

The audience will be aware of their state, but not at all because of the way they act. What the audience will not know, though, is the task they had in rehearsal.

The blind, said Miss Phyllis Marshall, who directed the plays, have no expression aside from laughter, in fear, anger or sadness, their features remain immobile. For each part Miss Marshall had to register the action and expression while the blind players felt over her with sensitive fingers.

If they must raise their eyebrows or frown, they must touch Miss Marshall's face to know how it is done.

Bumps in the rug guide them over the stage. In addition to their lines which they must learn from Braille, they have to remember how many steps from each rug bump is each article of furniture, and they must make the steps with a pole that does not give away the count.

All of the blind girl players are self-supporting. Ruth Askenas is stenographer for the New York Association for the Blind. Sara Rae is a handicraft worker and weaver. Mary Ruth Bierman is a teacher of diction and dancing.

U. S. LOCKS OPENED 22,420 TIMES DURING NAVIGATION SEASON

Traffic Heavy on Fox River This Year, Government Engineer Says

During the past season of navigation locks on the Fox river between De Pere and Portage were opened 22,420 times, according to the annual report of Nelson Wightman, government engineer at the Fox River Improvement Co. offices.

Navigation on the upper Fox and Wolf rivers was closed last week, and on the lower river at 6 o'clock last Monday evening.

Between April and the time navigation closed this season 3,657 passengers were transported up and down the Fox river, Mr. Wightman says. Many of these passengers were commercial fishermen who worked on Lake Winnebago and the river.

The greatest amount of freight during the season was hauled in September and October. In the former month the largest freight shipments weighed 44,135 tons, and in October, 44,465 tons.

The most lockages also were reported during September and October. In September the locks were opened 3,537 times, and in October 4,173. Passengers transported up and down the river during September totaled 1,651. During August 931 were transported.

Because navigation opened late in April there was little traffic reported in that month. The locks were opened only 715 times, and only 60 passengers were transported. The heaviest freight shipment weighed 4,394 tons.

VICEROY TRAVELS BY AIR; AVOIDS THREATS

New Delhi, India — (AP)—India's struggle for freedom has assumed such a form that the viceroy, Lord Willingdon, makes most of his trips by airplane.

Heretofore, whenever he traveled by rail, every foot of the route had to be guarded against revolutionists bent on wrecking the train. This watch entailed considerable expense.

The viceroy, who was formerly governor-general of Canada, finds that he can go about India by air much more safely and at a less cost.

The government has just purchased an airplane for his exclusive use, paying $5,000, which is one-fifth what the viceroy's sumptuous train cost.

BELIEVE WHITE ANTS WERE ONCE CIVILIZED

Washington—(P)—White ants are believed to have been "civilized" hundreds of thousands and perhaps millions of years ago.

Dr. Thomas E. Snyder, insect expert of the Department of Agriculture, says that they were as highly developed as they are today, and modern types of animal life were just beginning to appear on earth.

The ants, which live on wood and do considerable damage to wooden buildings in some localities, were designing and building their own dwellings long before man had developed enough to build any sort of shelter, says Dr. Snyder.

Ant homes parallel the evolution of man-made dwellings, he points out. The ants have constructed nests in trees, like early tree-dwelling man; have lived in holes hollowed out of the earth, like cave-dwelling man, and also have built low hut-like mounds and lofty "sky-scraper" structures in the modern manner.

JERRY: You used to boast that your love for pretty girls was just a passing fancy. And yet you got married.

JIM: Yes. I lingered too long in passing the last one.—Answers.

SCHOOL PAPER NOT ISSUED THIS WEEK

The Talisman, school newspaper at Appleton high school, was not published this week since the department editors attended the state press conference in Madison last weekend. The journalists included the Misses Jane Drevel, Betty Elias and Wilmer Stach of the Talisman and Miss Marjorie Jacobson and William Chopin of the Clarion, the school annual.

Now science shows why Kellogg's All-Bran acts so GENTLY

Here are scientific reasons for the benefits of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Tests prove ALL-BRAN contains "bulk," Vitamin B and iron.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that in lettuce. Within the body, it forms a soft mass, which gently clears the intestines of wastes. Vitamin B helps tone the intestinal tract.

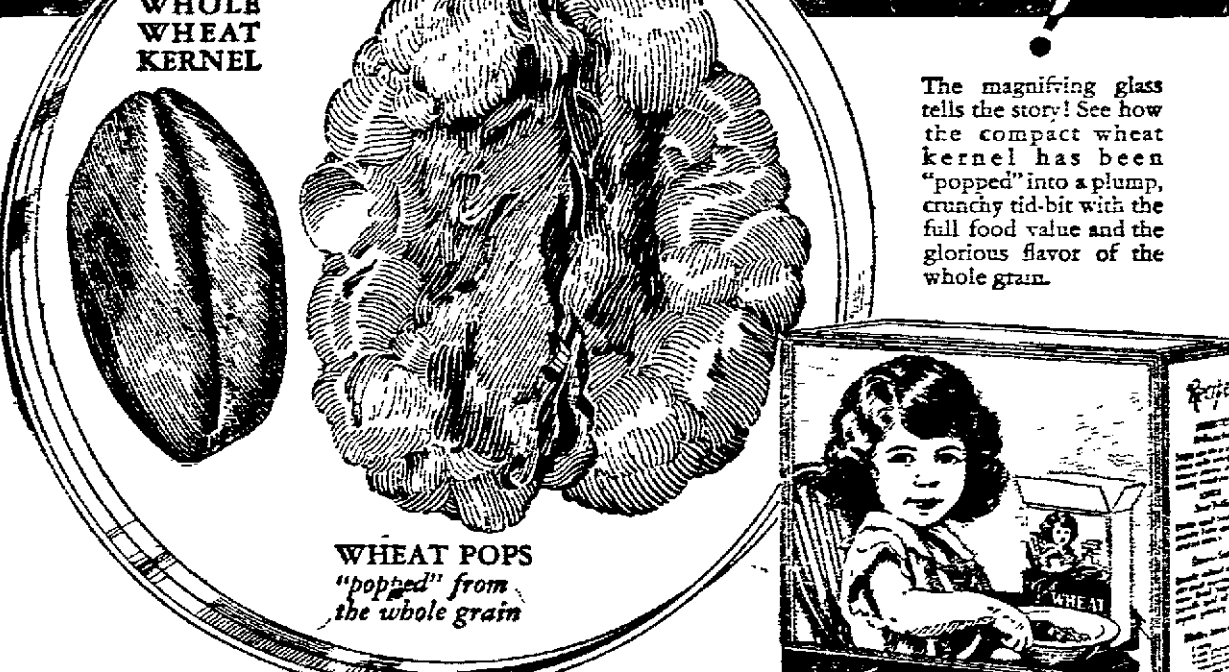

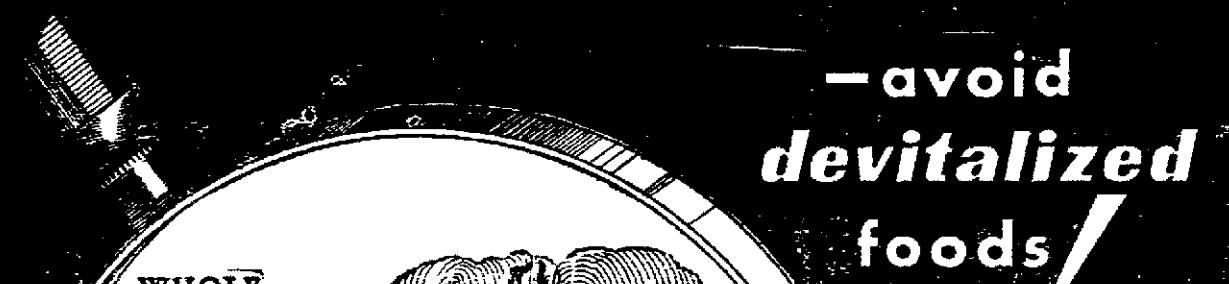

Nature demands these two essentials to function properly. For that reason, ALL-BRAN is far better than pills or drugs, which stimulate artificial action.

Two tablespoonfuls daily of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN will overcome most types of constipation. If you suffer from intestinal trouble not relieved this way, consult your doctor.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is a good source of blood-building iron. Serve as a cereal, or use in cooking. At all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

HELPS KEEP YOU FIT

FOR NATURE'S FLAVOR— Eat WHOLE GRAIN foods

How well does your breakfast food stand the "taste test"? Try it and see! Munch a handful right from the package without milk, cream or sugar. Has it the sun-ripened flavor of WHOLE GRAINS? Or is it simply a breakfast "filler"? Most breakfast foods are devitalized—stripped of vital elements and the rich flavor Mother Nature stores away in the WHOLE kernel. There's a reason for that. Until recently, food chemists were unable to "pop" whole grains into plump, crispy breakfast tidbits.

NOW science has the secret! Have you tasted WHEAT POPS or RICE POPS—the first breakfast cereals ever "popped" from WHOLE GRAINS? Try a handful of POPS right from the package for the rarest of delightful flavors! POPS is crispy, crackly, crunchy with the supreme deliciousness of sun-ripened grains. Here, too, is the rich food value of the entire kernel—minerals, proteins, carbohydrates and Nature's gentle laxative—bran—to promote regular elimination. Serve POPS to all the family for Nature's flavor—for balanced nourishment. Ask for WHEAT POPS or RICE POPS—avoid devitalized cereals.

"Briarcliff Thickset"

No, it's not the name of an English Estate . . . but, it is the name of the grand champion steer of the 1931 International Livestock Show. "Briarcliff Thickset" was sold at auction for $1.27 a pound.

This beef sold at a high price—but it is worth every penny of it. For almost two years this steer has been specially groomed and fed with only the choicest of foods in order to make him a champion.

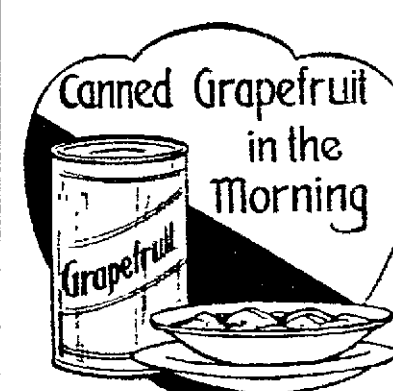

The same with Voecks Bros. Beef . . . it is the very best the market offers because it is specially fed and selected beef. Voecks Bros. Beef is always tender, juicy, delicious and full of those health-giving qualities. Furthermore, for your protection, Voecks Bros. Beef is all Graded and STAMPED by the U. S. Government. It just has to be GOOD if it comes from Voecks Bros.

SAYS PAPERS

Chairman of American Bar Committee Hits Friction Between Press, Judicial System

Madison—(AP)—Many newspapers "in countless ways have intruded upon, impeded and indirectly defeated the judicial processes," Andrew R. Sherff, Chicago, chairman of the American Bar association committee on co-operation of the press and bar, said here tonight in an address at a banquet of Sigma Delta Chi, national honorary journalistic fraternity.

"There is no novelty in the experience of friction, misunderstandings and mutual infringements between the press and the courts," he said. "But the novelty appears in the present earnest and organized effort to harmonize, or at least to bring about a mutual disposition to understand and adjust these relations."

Among "transgressions" of newspapers, Mr. Sherff pointed to the manner in which news and pictures were played.

"In glancing through the evening paper a few days ago, this factitious headline flashed before me in big type: 'Judge Rules Girl May Wash Toss in Lake.' Under it was an account of a police court hearing about a case of trivial misconduct at a bathing beach, of no interest, so that silly headline, evidently expected to get a laugh on the judge, appeared to be the only motive for the story," he said.

"More gravely offensive was a recent episode appearing in newspaper pictures. The occasion was the argument of a notorious criminal whom the newspapers glorify with the title 'Czar of Hoodlums,' before a federal judge. Here we find a picture of the judge and of the United States attorney, mixed in with three indifferent pictures of the pory criminal. The effect of such pictorial potpourri on the mind of the average reader would naturally tend to associate them all together in an impression of equality, and thereby transposed the honored member of the bench, and the government prosecutor, to the atmosphere of the gutter."

Mr. Sherff played several newspapers for displaying with nearly equal prominence the story of the funeral of Chief Justice Taft and the story of the funeral of a gangster the same day.

Newspapers, he said, "are guilty of gross improprieties and misrepresentations affecting the courts" when they "sometimes publish interviews with prisoners and other parties; they aggrandize the involved and besmirched persons in pictures; they often misrepresent the courtroom incidents, and frequently distort or lose the crucial points in the legal rights and questions; sometimes they put the judge himself in a false or compromised aspect; they habitually spy on the deliberations of juries and insist upon improper and harmful interviews with the jurors after their discharge."

Newspapermen of late, he said, have become conscious of their "tendencies to wrong doing in published matters concerning the courts and 'are bringing about a noticeable degree of improvement.'"

"We are asking publishers to use the materials originating in the courts in such a manner that it will not discredit the functions and institutions of the courts."

POLICE RECEIPTS
ALSO ARE LOWERED
BY DEPRESSION

Milwaukee—(AP)—Another depression note: the cash register in police court doesn't ring so often.

Just as many Milwaukeeans—probably a few more—collide with the law as in days of yore. But not so many are able to pay their fines.

A normal morning, after the weekend's accumulation of drunks has been punished, produces about $2,700 in fines. Recently with the average number of prisoners, fines paid in have totaled about $1,800. An increasing number of misbehaving citizens go to the workhouse.

CITY GETS $5,149
FROM STATE BODY

Money Represents Aid for Maintenance of Streets from Connections

A check for $5,149.90 was received by the city treasurer, F. E. Bachman, Thursday, from the Wisconsin Highway commission. This money represents Appleton's 1929 and 1931 state allotments for the maintenance of streets forming connections with state trunk highways.

Through an error the city did not receive its 1930 appropriation last year, so the check includes the $2,866.50 for 1930, and the $2,283.40 for this year. This year's allotment is somewhat less than 1930 because of the re-routing of highway 41 over Richmond and Wisconsin-ave, which resulted in the routing of two highways, 41 and 10, over the same streets.

It is expected that a recent survey made by L. M. Schindler, city engineer, and N. P. Hayes, maintenance engineer of the commission at Green Bay, will result in a further appropriation for 1931, but this will not be received until later. Mr. Hayes is recommending to the commission that the construction limits for connecting streets be increased, which will give Appleton more connecting street mileage.

SHOW MODERNISTIC ART AT COLLEGE

Futurism and Cubism Themes Also Included in Exhibit

Modernism, futurism and cubism by a dozen French, German and Dutch artists are on parade in the art alcove of the Lawrence college library.

Evanescent effects of sunlight, motion, and canvasses cubed in rich color are brought to Appleton in the display sponsored by the American Federation of Arts. And the common criticism of such paintings has been anticipated and answered in a unique manner by the Federation. Observers of modern art have too often come from the galleries not knowing "what it was all about," not knowing what the artists were driving at. Many have admired the color and effects produced but few have known any interpretation.

The display carries under each picture an explanation of the artist's motif, his accomplishment and a comment which allows comparison of one with another where two pictures are intended to produce the same effect.

Cezanne, Daumier, Degas, Taur-cin, Monet, Marc, Picasso, Renoir, Rousseau, Seurat, Utrillo and Van Gogh are included in the display.

Degas' "The Dancer" will attract every visitor almost immediately. The comment carried is this: "Degas renders light and movement but he does not lose a feeling for form and a definite design." More than one visitor has claimed that the Dancer has moved while they watched her, so powerful is his suggestion.

"Sail Boats," by Cross might catch only a passing glance from most visitors if it were not for the comment which explains that "It is done in the Pointillist manner," that "each spot has a definite shape, whereas in the earlier Impressionists the shape of the spot was not defined." And here is a complete painting with every paint-daub of a definite size and shape.

And so on through cubism. Those who have observed and have not understood modern art, lose much of that feeling when they visit the present display. Those who have previously had some understanding have found richer meaning. Later in the month the Ivory Soap sculptures will be on display in the business office in the college library building.

POSTMASTER URGES APPLETON PEOPLE TO MAIL, SHOP EARLY

Points Out That Public Can Help in Avoiding Holiday
Congestion

Postmaster Emmery A. Greunke today issued an appeal to postoffice patrons to aid in relieving holiday congestion of the mail and to "shop early and mail early for Christmas."

"Another Christmas is drawing near," said Postmaster Greunke, "and its approach reminds us of the great part we are to take in helping to spread happiness and good cheer. The custom of Christmas giving and the exchange of holiday greetings is widespread and general. The beautiful thoughts and sentiment as expressed in letters, greeting cards and gift packages, thousands and thousands of them, all within a very short time, promote unbounded happiness but tax the facilities of the postal service to the limit."

To handle the great volume of mail promptly and efficiently, Postmaster Greunke explained, it must be spread over a greater period. As there will be no city delivery, rural delivery or window service on Christmas day, he urged the public by all means available to help the postoffice make its Christmas program a complete success by shopping and mailing sufficiently early so that all Christmas letters, cards and parcels may be delivered before Christmas day.

Your Birthday

WHAT A TOMORROW MEANS TO YOU
BY MARY BLAKE
"SAGITTARIUS"

If December 5th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9:35 a. m. to 10:30 a. m., from 2:15 p. m. to 3:20 p. m. and from 5:30 p. m. to 7 p. m. The danger periods are from 11 a. m. to 1 p. m. and from 4:50 p. m. to 7 p. m.

Fate will look after the interests of those who are established in life on December 5th, and they may rest on their oars. Those who have been at grips with the world will find themselves on the right track. Much argument and discussion in the family circle, may cause a strained atmosphere.

The child born on this December 5th will have a proud, imperious nature and very high ambitions. It will resent any form of discipline, but will listen to reason. It will not be even-tempered, and will fly off the handle over trifles. It never harbors resentment, however.

Born on December 5th, you are a soldier of Fortune and a seeker of adventure. You are carried away by your enthusiasms, whilst they are fresh, but they are soon deserted when some new interest appears on the horizon. You cannot concentrate your attention on one thing for long at a time. You sow many seeds, but you reap few full-blown harvests; you start things for others to finish.

You are very open-handed, and with you to have is to spend. Many of your troubles have been due to a foolish desire to fight other people's battles. Generally your championship has been ill-based, and the people you have championed have left you in the air when you have wanted their support. You never go out of your way to do a man a bad turn, but you quickly go out of your way to do somebody a good turn. You seldom regret your impetuosity, though some of them have had appalling consequences. You do not cry over spilt milk. You are not a good judge of character, and if you like a person, you automatically trust him.

You have an active imagination, and get a great deal of enjoyment, if not any lasting benefit, out of your day dreams. Your transient optimism keeps up your courage, and you always look forward to the sun shining on your "tomorrows."

STATE HEALTH GOOD DESPITE DEPRESSION

Madison—(AP)—Despite widespread unemployment and consequent shrinkage of family budgets, Wisconsin has maintained "remarkably good health," Dr. C. A. Harper, state health officer said today.

However, he said, the state is facing a winter that may be one of the most severe from the economic standpoint during the past 25 years and demands upon state and local health agencies likely will be increased.

District conferences of local health officers at accessible points will be held during the winter in place of the usual biennial health conference here, he announced. Economy and the need for planning public health activities to meet the various needs of the several sections were given as the reasons for the change.

State Aid To City Will Be Higher In '32

On the basis of a new survey of streets made recently by L. M. Schneider, city engineer, Appleton's allotment of state aid for street maintenance probably will be increased by $3,650 this year. In addition, last year's appropriation of $7,470, based on 74.7 miles of streets in use in Appleton, will be doubled, because since the inauguration of the gas tax the state will give $250 instead of $100 for street maintenance. Thus, Appleton's 1931 allotment will be increased by $11,120.

The new survey increases Appleton's street mileage from 74.7, reported in 1925, to 97.72. A number of new streets have been opened in the past six years. The $250-per-mile appropriation will be received on 92 miles of the 97.72, as about five miles are streets connecting state trunk highways, for which the state makes a separate appropriation of $500 a mile. In addition Appleton will get a specified sum to replace what it collected for personal tax on automobiles before the gas tax bill was passed.

Of the 97.72 miles of streets in Appleton, 30 are paved.

WOMAN BANKER SAYS IT IS WOMAN WHO HOLD FAMILY PURSE

Find More Money Being Saved Since Females Control Finances

BY HELEN WELSHMER

New York—It isn't the king who is in the parlor counting out his money any longer, according to the National Association of Bank Women. It is very much more likely to be his wife.

For the women of America are doing 85 per cent of the banking that is done in savings departments today. The old theory that credited women with plenty of spending ability, and little or no saving genius has had its day, too.

Since women are handling the family exchequer considerably more money is going into the banks than it did when their husbands were captains of the family finances.

Miss Jane Langthorne, manager of the women's department of the Title Guarantee and Trust Company of Brooklyn, and chairman of the publicity committee for the fifth annual convention of the Association of Bank Women which is to be held in Atlantic City, October 3 to 8, is enthusiastic in her approval of the way that women are learning money values.

Department Grows
It hasn't been so many years since the first woman executives appeared in banks. Women's departments developed. Their success has been unusual.

"Women are more inclined to save than men because it means more to them to have a definite amount of money in the bank where it can be reached," Miss Langthorne says. "Most women have a definite objective toward which they are saving. Either the education of their children, the buying of a home, or the paying off of a mortgage. Quite frequently women save in spite of their husbands."

For the head of the house may think a new golf club membership is important when there is money in the bank, but his wife knows that the house should be painted next spring.

"Every woman should have a definite plan of saving as well as of budgeting her money for household and other purposes," Miss Langthorne explains. "There isn't any established form for making out her schedule that we can give her. She alone knows her particular problems and how to solve them."

Brought Lesson
The women's departments of the bank are not extravagant gestures towards the feminine financial interest, either, according to Miss Langthorne. Every day women come, in search of facts, not tips. Since the depression they are through taking chances.

Now that intriguing plumes are going to sweep down from hats in a manner quite beguiling and haughty and bustles are making a suggestion of coming back, there will be no danger of women losing their interest in the handling of money, Miss Langthorne is certain.

Women may go feminine in a glamorous way, but they will keep

Flapper Fanny Says

When parents are obstinate, love flies out the window.

their share of the family's money in their beaded bags.

The present economic era is responsible for this. Their grandmothers who were enchantingly feminine and financially ignorant didn't handle money, mainly because it didn't need it.

Women Turn Financiers
"Economic conditions have changed," the spokesman for the women banking officials explains. "Once upon a time all interests centered in the home. When there was illness the patient was cared for at home. When there was entertaining it was done at home. Luncheon or dinner was served in the family dining room."

"But now illness is taken care of in hospitals, and guests are quite likely to be taken to a club or hotel for entertainment. It is necessary for women to handle money today whereas it wasn't in an earlier period."

"Many men are busy, too, during banking hours. They let their wives act as their secretaries and do the banking. Physicians, for instance, turn their books over to their wives quite frequently."

So it isn't any wonder that the women bank executives have an organization of their own. There is more money in the banks today than ever before, Miss Langthorne says.

Measles Often Endanger Future Health Of Child

Madison — Measles may be a disease common to school children but it carries with it greater dangers to future health than any other child ailment. Because of the large increase in the number of cases of measles in Wisconsin during the past summer, an increase of 891 in one single month, the Educational Committee of the State Medical Society warns mothers to be on the watchout for other infirmities and illnesses developing later as a result.

"Of all of the communicable diseases, measles is one of the most contagious," declares the Medical Society's Health Bulletin. "Practically every child between the ages of six months and ten years who has not previously had the disease develops measles following exposure to it. It is this very susceptibility of children that makes its spread so difficult to prevent. The actual spread of the disease is usually by direct contact, but it is not at all necessary for the contact to be real close, because being in the same room for only a short time is usually enough to infect the susceptible child."

"Starting as it does, with the symptoms of a cold and cough, lasting for several days before the rash appears, it is more often than not unrecognized until a number of children have been exposed. Many an epidemic of measles has been started by a thoughtless mother who could not be bothered to keep her children from school because of what seemed to be a slight cold. It is this stage of the disease, down with measles that the disease is most contagious, although it continues to be so throughout the course of the disease. In addition, direct contact with the patient, the disease is spread by contact with articles treated with the secretions from the nose and throat of the child with measles, such as towels, handkerchiefs, eating utensils, may be responsible for its spread. Also persons coming in contact with the patient may carry the disease from room to room, or from building to building, but it is not in this way that persons can carry the disease to another fresh air from one building to another.

Some strange reason the public at large used to regard measles as a trivial disease. As a consequence the death rate would average three to six per cent from year to year and some years would run at a much higher level. During the past ten years, however, an appreciation of the seriousness of measles has developed, and the death rate has steadily declined to year to year. Out of 12,500 cases of measles in Wisconsin in the year 1929, there were only 36 deaths, as compared to 3,000 deaths in 1910, when the death rate was 24 per cent.

Measles is not only dangerous to the child, but it is also dangerous to the adult. It is a disease of age, and between 5 and 25 years of age, it is most common. In fact, it is the most common of all diseases in this age group. In fact, it is the most common of all diseases in this age group. In fact, it is the most common of all diseases in this age group.

complications, the most serious of which is sleeping sickness, sometimes occur. The older the child and the better the individual care the less apt are complications to develop. Another serious characteristic of measles is the increased susceptibility to other contagious diseases, particularly diphtheria, scarlet fever and whooping cough. Measles also seems to have a definite tendency to arouse latent tuberculosis and to increase the susceptibility to tuberculosis. For these various reasons, it may be said that measles is a serious disease to adults as well as to children. It should be given the most careful treatment and nursing supervision.

WHITE SOX STEAL TRADING SHOW AT MAJOR-MINOR MEET

Committee of Five Named to Handle Minor League Affairs

BY PAUL MICKELSON
Associated Press Sports Writer
EST. BADEN, IND. — (AP)—Branch Rickey, field general of the St. Louis Cardinal farm system, and Chicago's White Sox have stolen the thirtieth minor league baseball show.

As the big show opened its final act today, Rickey was hailed by the financially harried minor league club owners as the hero for putting over a drastic reorganization plan while the White Sox easily took all the play away from their major league brothers by completing three important player deals.

The most important deal turned in by the White Sox came last night when they traded outfielder Carl Reynolds and second baseman Johnny Kerr to the Washington Senators for pitchers Irving Hadley and "Sam" Jones and second baseman Minter Hays. Within two hours of that deal they traded pitcher Bob Weiland to the Boston Red Sox for pitcher Milton Gaston. In addition, during the convention, they purchased outfielder Harold Anderson from St. Paul of the American association.

But that wasn't all. It was understood they still had another big deal pending whereby Hadley would be used in a trade with the New York Yankees, possibly for Tony Lazzeri or Myril Hoag.

It was under Rickey's leadership that the parent body of the minor leagues, the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues, vacated Mike Sexton's office of president and replaced it with a "big five" committee, which will study the entire question of minor league baseball and inaugurate a progressive movement to make the game more appealing, will have complete charge of the organization's administrative affairs for one year, after which it will doubtless employ a peerless leader to carry on.

The three representatives of the "big five" from the class AA leagues are Joe Carr, of Columbus, Ohio; Warren Giles, president of the Eastern League; and J. Alvin Gardner, of Dallas, president of the Texas league. The two representatives of the class A to D leagues were to be named today.

ORANGE CAGERS AT WISCONSIN RAPIDS

Compete in Two Practice Games This Weekend; Six Vets on Squad

Appleton high school basketball team will open its 1931-32 campaign tonight when it clashes with Wisconsin Rapids high school at the Rapids and Saturday hops to Marshfield for a game with Marshfield high five.

The Valley league season in which Appleton will compete as one of last year's co-champions opens Friday evening, Dec. 11. Practically every school in the loop is playing a game tonight to permit coaches to get a line on the best combinations.

Appleton's trip into Central Wisconsin is the second in two years. Last year the Orange made the jaunt and lost to Stevens Point and Wisconsin Rapids but got a lot of experience.

Six members of last year's team will make the trip this weekend, and probably will be given first chance to show their stuff. They are Ken Priebe and Bobby Rule forwards, Bill Peotter center, Joe Verrier, Emmett Mortell, and Jim Murphy, guards.

Sports Question Box

Q.—Has Max Schmeling ever knocked out any top notch heavyweights?
A.—Yes. Young Stribling and Johnny Risko.
Q.—The umpire in chief in a game in which we played refused to call strikes because he said only part of the ball was over the corner of the plate, the other part being out side. Was he right?
A.—No. He must have had remarkable eyesight.
Q.—What is the largest attendance at a football game in the South?
A.—Thirty-eight thousand at the Tulane-Georgia game at Athens.

Short Sports

A party of ball players from Houston, Tex., recently bagged eight deer in the Texas hill country.
Annual permits to hunt anywhere in Mexico now cost foreigners $50 instead of $20.
Scores of deer trap themselves each year in concrete-lined irrigation ditches of the lower Rio Grande valley.
Up to 1931 the University of Oklahoma had won 15 of 26 games with Oklahoma A. & M. in their tradition of football series.
Samuel (Porky) Levine, goalie for the Kansas City Pla-Mors, is the only Jewish hockey player in pro competition.
In a football game between Shawnee and Tulsa, Okla., high schools the only score came when two Tulsa backs batted a Shawnee pass around in the air till a Shawnee back caught it.
Stuart Suckney and Walter Pfeiffer, St. Louis sports enthusiasts, are attempting to revive coursing.

Notre Dame Students Show Finest Spirit In Defeat

BY LAWRENCE PERRY
Copyright 1931
NEW YORK.—(CPA)—Defeat in football in these modern days are as a rule accepted with philosophy by adherents of even the strongest, the most proficient eleven. The game in all its elements inevitably makes for uncertainty. Imponderable factors of psychology enter very importantly, and the various factors of offense create scoring possibilities not only in the way or direct effort but through breaks and all sorts of chances and mischances that the old game of football never knew.
The outpouring of Notre Dame undergraduates, who walked three miles from the university to South Bend to give their team cheer and welcome upon their return from the Army game, showed that the heart of the student population of this university is in the right place and that they have the capacity to think clearly and judge fairly in defeat as in victory. And so, for all that anyone knows to the contrary, with the alumni.
If the public made a sensation of Notre Dame's two successive defeats it was only because of an impression developed in the course of three years that the team was unbeatable. The victory of Southern California was explained away on several logical counts but when the Army turned to and gave the Irish a convincing lacing, the "upset" was more stunning than anything that has occurred in football in a long time.
Yet even in the face of these two beatings, the fact is established that Notre Dame was a very fine eleven and one in which every student and every alumnus and every friend of this university may legitimately take pride. It proved not to be a world-beater, but if a football system advances to the point where it stands or falls upon its ability to clean up the country year after year, it would be well for the institution that sponsors it to be somewhat less successful.
Not One Of Greatest Sheeple observers of football who have been watching Notre Dame's progress this season where at no time impressed by the belief that this outfit ranked with the greatest that has been produced at South Bend. Hence they were not as sur-

KID LEONARD WINS LA CROSSE DECISION

La Crosse.—(AP)—Fueled in a rush that carried him out of the ring, Kid Leonard, East Moline, Ill., middleweight, was awarded the decision over Mel Coleman, Duluth, Minn., in the third round of a scheduled six round main event boxing bout here last night.
Referee Walter Heckman, Milwaukee, stepped in the fight when Leonard went through the ropes, fracturing a rib in the fall. Coleman had built up a commanding lead and the crowd based its decision on Coleman, weighed 135 and Leonard 132.
The sentiment was for six rounds, ended in the eighth when Eddie Mason, 110 lb., St. Paul, knocked out Everett Hanson, 120 lb., La Crosse.

prised as the public that defeat finally came to it.
There was a feeling among these observers that in the end tie with Northwestern the Evanson team had the better of the argument, just as there were indications of a lack of cohesion and a lack of offensive ammunition in the Carnegie Tech game.

Partly because of the season were over, the lack of that organization was a factor. The last which was a factor in the championship of Kansas State in the football faculty. The team of the season has been found to be the all of Hank Anderson's problems related to teaching football to the students.

But whatever the problems were the fact remains that with the loss of certain talent, the Evanson whose services were of inestimable value in 1930 and with the transfer cap which many would have called to Notre Dame would have led to more in future the place of the greatest teacher of football who ever lived—the fact remains that Anderson did a masterful job. Under his administration Notre Dame football has not only that progress which is characteristic of the Irish eleven in 1931 was demonstrated, highly rated and highly respected and it is likely to be respected today. That is the main thing. As for the future, there are no end there are times when they are as hardy and tough as any who, some and anticipate.

KIMBERLY HIGHS TO OPEN WITH PULASKI

Outlook for Villagers Poor Because of Lack of Veterans

Kimberly—Coach Harper has a tough job on his hands trying to round up a fast basketball team to represent the Red and White this season. The big difficulty is the lack of the La May brothers, two of the best forwards ever to represent the school, one due to sickness and the other on account of the age limit. Schwanke an all conference guard last year is also missing because of the age ruling, and Burrell, a lanky center failed to return to school.
Out of the 27 boys who came out to throw the ball around the Kimberly coach will have to mold a team. He has cut his squad down to ten which include the following candidates: Hoffkins, Harold and L. Van Dyke and Art Hoffkins two brother combinations at the forward post with Grossman a sophomore able to play at center guard or forward, Morde at center, Alberts, Williams, Brier and Vander Velden guards.
Wednesday Harper took his protégés to Little Chute where they scrimmaged with the St. John high school team. The Little Chute team walked all over the Kimberly team and won 25 to 5. The second team which is coached by Sylvester Schwanke came through and won from St. John seconds 11 to 10.
Friday evening the Kimberly team will open its conference schedule with Pulaski at Pulaski.

LADY with a PAST

BY HARRIET HENRY

from Europe with a manufactured "past," brilliant and sensational, which brings her popularity in New York society. She wants to repay Roland Wainwright for his former neglect, and Rollo is attracted. Drake Farrelly, however, whom Venice actually cares for, believes the rumors about Venice and dislikes them.

Baron Stienvel was taking her away from Rollo. She lost Drake in the sea of gyrating forms. She was annoyed. Her eyes went slaving about the room. All at once she saw him sitting on the sidelines. Some one had gone off with his sister. He was watching Venice. Why doesn't he ask me to dance, she thought. She looked up into the Baron's face.

"You walk like the hero of a Vienna operetta," she said. After the words were out she reflected that it was a dubious compliment. Apparently he did not think so. "To dance with you is a dream," he murmured.

"Oh, my God, went her mind. Drake, I mustn't lose him. "I like the other end of the room better, don't you?" she managed. Donny Reese cut in here. "And I once thought you dull," he sighed. "What a whirl you're having, Venice."

"Like a leaf in an autumn wind. Let's go up toward the other end of the room, Donny. I think it's a little less crowded."

"Right. Rollo's gardenias methinks?"

"No, Wadley and Synthes." Where was Drake? There, in the same chair. He was still watching her and she smiled at him. He rose. "Sorry, Donny." He touched Venice's arm. They were away together. She had nothing to say but it was her first moment of real happiness that evening. He danced well. Smoothly and evenly. He held her tightly but impersonally. "Was that your sister?" she asked.

"Yes, Peggy, the older one. This is her first big party."

"I thought you snubbed her affairs like that generally."

"Why tonight then?"

Rollo's hand was on Drake's shoulder.

"May I?" he asked with a proprietary smile.

"Of course. Thank you, Venice." Drake was lost again. She became silent.

"Come along," said Rollo. "I've arranged a little supper in one of the dining-rooms."

"Oh, just around the room once more, Rollo." Her eyes sought made for Drake. They couldn't find him.

Supper was hilarious. The Baron and Rollo sparred for her attention. Rollo took Venice home when the first grey banners of dawn were flying across the sky.

Rollo unlocked Venice's front door. He went inside with her. "What an evening!" she sighed. "It's been marvellous. Rollo. But it's too late for you to come in unless you want to wait a few minutes for breakfast."

"No, darling. Tonight's my night. Are you going to marry me, Venice?" He smiled down at her with roguishness and smug self-assurance in his gaze. His golden cockroach was enhanced by the one lamp in the hall. His sapphire eyes were gay and certain of his own irresistibility. The consciousness of his own charm seemed to visibly exhilarate him. She would have liked to slap his face.

"No, Rollo," she said carefully. "I'm not going to marry you."

"Don't joke, sweet."

"I'm not joking."

He started at her through a silence in which neither of them seemed able to find words. The evening's success faded for Venice in the supreme triumph of this moment. If Cerise Nails could see her now! She was not good enough for him when she was actually Venice Muir, shy and grave and suffering from the indifference tendered her. It needed a man's death to call her to his attention.

"Why not?" he finally asked. His tone was irritated and truculent. (Copyright, Harriet Henry)

Venice completes her triumph with Rollo, tomorrow. But what of Drake?

N. B. A. LISTS COMMANDMENTS OF LISTENERS

Ten Rules Culled from Letters Received from Broadcasting Company

BY ROBERT MACK

Washington (CPA)—The 19 commandments of the radio listener, culled from the contents of some 3,000,000 fan letters received thus far this year, are laid down by John W. Elwood, vice president and program expert of the National Broadcasting Co.

On the mooted question of radio advertising, Mr. Elwood finds the composite listener says he will listen "to a reasonable amount of sales talk but make it snappy." Listeners demand that the broadcaster conform to the "rules of good taste, decency and common sense."

Mr. Elwood declares he cannot share the fears expressed for the future of broadcasting when the feeling of the people is manifested by an outpouring of expression which amounts to more than 3,000,000 letters received by N. B. C. alone since the first of the year.

The conduct of the broadcaster, according to Mr. Elwood, is measured by the radio rules of the listener's decalogue, which he describes as a condensation of the views expressed by the unseen but not inarticulate audience in the mountains of fan mail. Here is his listener's credo:

The Commandments

1. I am the listener. I am the final word in determination of the popularity of a radio program.

2. I speak not in self praise with too lengthy indulgence—I will listen to a reasonable amount of sales talk but make it snappy.

3. Tell me not the same story again and yet again. I have no desire to memorize your stuff.

4. Use discretion and taste as to the character and timing of your message. Crash not in upon my uplifted mood inspired by noble music with barbs about your product.

5. Make your programs high class whatever type they may be. Rather would I hear a first class harmonica player than a third rate symphony orchestra.

6. Speak not in the tongue of the liar, neither use superlatives until Iicken.

7. Emit no wise cracks on important occasions, neither be solemn nor soggy at lissome moments.

8. Sell not shaving cream in the afternoon nor broadcast household hints at night.

9. Introduce no guest speakers of unpleasant voice. If they speak not well, let some one else read their stuff.

10. Conform to the rules of good taste, courtesy, decency, and common sense. You enter my humble abode as an invited guest, but mistake not the warmth of my welcome for an invitation to become a permanent lodger. These be my whims and caprices. By them are you judged. Hearken to me and practice these precepts lest I give you the raspberry and turn off the darn thing, clap on my hat and to the movies go.

FIND DECREASE IN 10 MAJOR DISEASES

Madison (AP)—Marked decreases in 10 important diseases during October, 1931, compared with the corresponding month last year were reported today by the state board of health.

The most outstanding reductions were registered in chickenpox, measles and scarlet fever. The bureau reported 332 cases of chickenpox last October, 559 less than in October, 1930. There were 31 cases of measles, a decrease of 531 over the previous October and 231 cases of scarlet fever, a reduction of 375. Other reductions were whooping cough, 559 cases, decreased 61; tuberculosis, 124, decreased 63; influenza, 32, decreased 33; pneumonia, 23, decreased 24; typhoid fever, 17, decreased 35; diphtheria, 38, decreased 5; small pox, 7, decreased 24.

Mumps, with 352 cases, increased 151, and poliomyelitis, with 100, increased 65.

RECOMMEND MEMORIAL GARDEN TO BABCOCK

Madison (AP)—The agriculture committee of the board of regents of the University of Wisconsin Wednesday recommended establishment of a Babcock Memorial garden on the campus of the university in honor of the late professor M. M. Babcock, professor of soil fertility and inventor of the D. C. milk test.

The regents approved the suggestion. The garden will include herbaceous and other varieties of flowers. Professor Babcock, who died in his own garden, Babcock Flowers, said his garden will be transferred into the memorial garden.

Get Rid Of RHEUMATISM

New Medicine Drives Rheumatic Poisons from Joints—Muscles. EASES PAIN FIRST DAY

Poisons settling in the joints and muscles cause rheumatism. You cannot get rid of rheumatism until these dangerous poisons are driven out of your system. External remedies and pain deadening drugs only give temporary relief.

What you need is RU-M-A, the new medicine now sold by druggists everywhere, that acts directly on the liver, kidneys and blood, and helps expel through the natural channels of elimination the dangerous poisons that cause rheumatism.

No long waiting for your suffering to stop. RU-M-A eases pain the first day and is the only medicine guaranteed to stop your rheumatism, muscle aches, and pains from being painful still. RU-M-A soothes and stops your rheumatism, suffering and nothing to pay. Adv.

Depression Hits Movie Capital--Salaries Cut

BY JESSIE HENDERSON

(Copyright 1931, by Cons. Press)

Hollywood (CPA)—In the Hollywood epidemic of 29 to 40 per cent salary cuts affecting all hands from executive to office boy, including the stars for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer which is not backed by economizing bankers, the studios in general have either cut their payrolls or plan to do so within a fortnight. There will be fewer butlers and caviar sandwiches hereabouts beginning this month.

The average salary for a really capable actor though not a great star is now around $1,000 a week. Twenty-five hundred a week is very good, indeed. This compares with $2,500 to $3,000 a week in the '24 boom times. In those days Colleen Moore was the highest paid star at a straight salary of $100,000 a week whether working or not, and $12,000 a week when making a picture.

Not that all the stars will go without butlers and caviar even under present conditions. Among the highest paid stars today are Constance Bennett at $50,000 a week straight salary from Paramount for two pictures in two years at Warner's for $15,000 a picture; Richard Barthelmess at $3,000 a week; and Ruth Chatterton and William Powell at $2,000 each for two years' work. Mary Pickford, with one seventh interest, in her studio and producing her own pictures is a millionaire, but is not on salary. John Barrymore will receive $125,000 for a picture at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. This, however, represents a cut from his former price of $150,000 per picture. Production costs have for some time been whittled down, such as using an enameled bath tub in the bathroom instead of a gold one. At all studios there is a tendency to whittle production costs rather than production and the pointed rumor that Fox had suspended production is true. Two pictures started at this studio on Monday, and with at least four additional pictures beginning before the month ends, December is a busy month for Fox as any in their history. They have 19 pictures finished and ready for the theatre, more than any other studio in town.

But if the stars are annoyed they have nothing on the delinquent executives. "Compare our salaries with those of executives in Bethlehem Steel and General Motors," said a movie official today, "and look at the salaries of our stars and you'll see." While New York bankers force salary cuts, Hollywood contends that the war cut it financial dividends for the movies is not by salary cuts but by better pictures. Between screens of agony and rapture Hollywood is gasping advice about eliminating deadwood and lifting big, priced people who throw the meaning of slowmanship.
